Election law reform will be on ballot

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Petitions calling for a strong campaign spending law contain enough signatures to place the issue on the ballots in the November general election, Missouri Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick said today.

He said the petitions submitted in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 7th, 8th and 9th congressional districts contained 87,641 signatures of registered voters, 22,742 more than the 64,899 required in those seven districts.

"It is obvious petition circulators made a concerted effort to obtain the signatures of registered voters," Kirkpatrick said. "For the drive to have succeeded in such a short time is clear proof Missourians are concerned about our election laws."

The proposed law will require reporting of financial statements three times for each election, primary and general, and require that all contributions of $25 or more be made public. All contributions must be recorded, and any candidate who spends $500 or more on an election campaign must file reports with the secretary of state and the proposed election commission.

"The speed with which the signatures were gathered also suggests a few signers took time to read the 9,566-word proposal," Kirkpatrick said. "I am concerned that Missourians understand the proposal before they vote on it and know what it does, both good and bad."

Kirkpatrick said the proposal closes loopholes in existing laws which ignore contributions made more than 90 days before the election.

However, Kirkpatrick, the state's No. 1 election official, called attention to what he called a serious objection.

"It will discourage community and business leaders from serving in public office at the local level," he said.

He said requiring every candidate for every office to completely disclose sources of their income is "unnecessary and unwarranted."

He said the proposal would "practically" eliminate businessmen, professional men, community leaders and their spouses from serving on school boards, city councils and special district boards, including road, nursing home, hospital, and other boards of that type.

"Instead of keeping track of every customer who spends more than $100 with him, the farmer, the grocery store owner, the filling station operator and others simply won't consent to serve in these unpaid public service jobs," Kirkpatrick said.

Curtis calls for limiting federal spending, power

NEW MADRID — Tom B. Curtis, Republican U. S. Senate candidate, Thursday night listed inflation, irresponsible federal spending, balancing the budget, election and campaign financing reforms and a return to strong state and local governments as the basic issues in his campaign during an address at the New Madrid County Republican Club's fourth annual Lincoln Day dinner at New Madrid County R-1 Vocational - Technical School.

"When I go to the U. S. Senate, I want to underscore that there is going to be a strong, loud voice speaking up for the state government, the Clayton candidate stated. "There is going to be an end, if I can bring it to bear, on the bypassing and undermining of state and local government.

"Is this not one of the major issues that face us? That the federal government has continued to grab and move into more and more areas ... this is what brings about the Watergate syndrome.

"The Jeffersonian Democrat does understand and believes, as we believe, that the best government is that closest to the people, local and state. But we have to be responsive to the local and state government and to the needs of the people," he continued.

Curtis said the Republicans could be proud of the role they have played in bringing better

government, not just to this state but by setting an example to the entire United States.

He cited Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond, Lt. Gov. William Phelps, Attorney General John Danforth and State Auditor John Ashcroft for turning government around in Missouri.

Curtis charged that incumbent Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton is advocating fighting inflation and at the same time is proposing "back door spending," he said Eagleton is issuing "dope sheets" to the farmers, old people and labor groups about programs he will make -- all costing money -- trying to get them hooked on federal government.

In conclustion, Curtis said, "Is it possible for someone campaigning against Santa Claus to be elected? I don't know, but we are going to find out because that's the issue here in Missouri. I am not pulling my punches.

"I want the people to make an honest judgment in this state between a spender and a fiscal conservative.

"If the Missouri people respond as I think they are going to and return me to Washington, I am going to pick up the reins of leadership I dropped when I left the Congress and believe me, we are going to balance this budget and we are going to get rid of inflation.

"And, incidentally, as we do that, we can move forward to what is equally important, reducing federal taxes and returning power to state and local governments.

"If we have a voice in Missouri, this will be heard throughout the nation and we will be back on the track that made this the greatest nation in the world," Curtis added.

Mrs. Janet Ashcroft, speaking in behalf of her husband, State Autitor John Ashcroft, who is seeking election to a four- year term, said her husband believes the state auditor has to do much more than look behind the financial forms submitted by state agencies but must also see how wisely and efficiently the money is being spent and if it is being spent according to statutes.

Mrs. Ashcroft noted that her husband had saved, or

Ambulance service contract is signed

BENTON — The Scott County Court Thursday entered into a contract with the Roush Ambulance Co. of Cape Girardeau to provide ambulance protection to the northern part of the county.

The service will go into effect Sept. 1 and will run through Jan. 1, 1975, by which time the County Court hopes to have its own ambulances available.

Calls for ambulance service will be made through the Scott County sheriff's office in Benton.

The Roush firm will serve the cities of Commerce, Perkins, Chaffee, Illmo, Scott City, Benton and rural areas in the northern part of the county.

The court decided to begin closing the county sanitary landfill at 4 p.m. daily, beginning Sept. 1, instead of 5 p.m., the present closing time.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the earlier closing will allow the landfill operator time to cover the landfill with a layer of dirt.

Beginning the same day, the landfill will be closed on Sundays. Lankford said no operator is on duty Sundays and that state regulations require the solid waste to be covered every day the landfill is open.

Lankford said he hoped the new rules would enable the county to conform to state solid waste disposal regulations.

The court has been criticized recently by the state officials for not following regulations in the operation of the landfill.

Orr bound over in assault case

BLOOMFIELD — George Orr, 17, of Morehouse, who is charged with the July 14 beating of Joan Hann, 20, a rural Sikeston woman, was bound over to Circuit Court Thursday, following a preliminary hearing before Judge Koss W. Blomeyer. Orr will appear in Circuit Court Sept. 4, where he will face a charge of felonious assault with intent to ravish.

Miss Hann testified the beating took place at approximately 3 a.m. on the night of July 14, after she had returned to her parents' home, following a party at the Joe Sutton home in Morehouse.

She said she was driven home from the party by her boy friend, Mike Brashears, in her own automobile. She said she had been drinking and Brashears felt she shouldn't drive. She said after Brashears delivered her to her parents home, he was picked up by Orr and another 16- year- old Morehouse youth, who returned him to the Sutton home to get his own car. She said she remained in her car and fell asleep and the next thing she remembered she was being picked up by Orr, who then threw her into the back of a pick- up truck and proceeded to drive away. She said she was afraid to jump from the moving vehicle. Orr and his companion then took Miss Hann to a bridge approximately one- half mile from the Hann home and stopped the truck. Miss Hann said she then fled the scene on foot and was approximately one- third of the way across the field toward her home when she tripped and fell. She said Orr caught up to her at this time and sat on her to prevent her from escaping. She said Orr then struck her twice with his fist, knocking her unconscious. She said when she regained consciousness, both boys had fled. She then proceeded to walk to her parents home. When asked if she had been raped, she replied that she had not, but believed an attempt had been made as her pants zipper was torn and a button missing.

Bernard Hann testified that he had become alarmed when his daughter had not returned at this unusually late hour and had gotten out of bed and notified the highway patrol. He said Mrs. Hann told him she heard a woman scream. He said he then went to the door and turned on the outside lights and discovered his daughter's car in the driveway with the door open. Thinking it might have been his daughter's scream heard by Mrs. Hann, he began to look around the farm and spotted the pickup truck. He said he began to pursue the truck, thinking his daughter was inside. He said, however, he lost the truck

Solid waste ordinance adopted

CHARLESTON — In special session Thursday night the city council adopted the final draft of a solid waste ordinance and voted to appropriate $2,500 toward clearing debris from the urban renewal area.

Following adoption of a solid waste ordinance, the council also adopted an ordinance entering the city into contract with Bill Groves Jr. of Charleston for solid waste collection service.

The contract with Groves will be signed today. Groves was in St. Louis Thursday to pick up his equipment, according to Mayor P. J. Ponder, who indicated Groves would begin the pick-up service immediately.

The service will cost $3.15 per month for weekly pickup for an unlimited number of containers placed at the rear of residences. Billing and collecting for the service will be handled by the city.

George Simmons, William Hart, Bill Purnell and Layton Pickard, members of the Urban Renewal Board, and Tanna Parish, Urban Renewal Director, attended Thursday's meeting to request that the city clean up rubble and debris accumulating in the urban renewal area.

Under the program, the city agreed at the onset of the four year plan to clean up property following the demolition of old houses. At present the city is running behind in clean- up efforts.

City Manager Willis Downs explained that the work was running behind due mainly to city crews and equipment being kept busy with water, sewer and street problems, which must receive top priority.

A bid of $3,665 plus trade- in from Galemore Motor Co. of Charleston was accepted for the purchase of a 1974 model car for the city manager.

Burglars hit prosecutor's office

Burglars broke into the offices of Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore, 314 W. North St., sometime between 7 p.m. Thursday and 8:30 a.m. today and carried off items valued at over $1,200 and an undisclosed amount of cash.

The burglars took two dictating machines valued at $500, a calculator valued at $500, two watches of unknown value, two briefcases worth $85, a BB pistol worth $25, a 9-millimeter automatic pistol worth $165 and a .38-caliber revolver of unknown value, as well as the undisclosed amount of cash.

The burglars apparently entered the building by climbing up the back steps to the second floor, crawling across the roof and breaking a window into the kitchen.

Marshall St. widening aired

CHARLESTON — The Missouri State Highway Department's proposal for the widening of Marshall St., which runs east and west through the city, was discussed Thursday night at a public hearing in the Circuit Court room.

About 65 residents and businessmen along the street attended the meeting, called by the highway department for the purpose of explaining the location and preliminary design details and to obtain views of interested persons who will be effected by the comtemplated highway improvements.

The first person to endorse the proposal during the question and comments period was George Simmons, a local equipment company owner on the street. Simmons also spoke on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, which he said unanimously approved the proposal.

Letters of endorsement from the chamber, city council, and urban renewal board were read by Lionel T. Murray, district engineer for the highway department 10th District with headquarters in Sikeston, who presided at the hearing.

James Haw a Charleston attorney, who said he owned no property in the proposed area, spoke out against the project, stating that he was "utterly and completely opposed to the plan." According to Haw the highway department is supposed to be short of funds and work should be done on county and supplementary roads where it is more needed.

Haw also said he felt that the amount of traffic on Marshall St. does not require a four lane highway, one that would be harder to cross, either walking or driving. He also cited opposition to tearing down old homes, those of elderly residents, and the uprooting of large trees which could not be replaced or restored in a lifetime.

A murmur of "Amen" and a few claps of applause were heard following Haw's comments.

Others voicing opposition were James Ashley, Mr. and Mrs. Rule Swank, and Sandra Stanley. Another comment of opposition voiced was "regardless if state or urban renewal funds are used for construction, it's still our money which will be spent."

Mayor P. J. Ponder, owner of Ponder's Chevrolet Buick Co. on Marshall St. endorsed the project, as did William Hart, a member of the urban renewal board.

The proposed Marshall St., or Route 62 improvements, called for a high type pavement 48 feet wide with shoulders 10 feet in width to be constructed initially in the active urban renewal area from First Street west to Finney Street. The present plan for widening was designed to utilize land adjacent to Route 62 acquired by the Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority of Charleston.

Later proposed construction would run from First Street to the I-57 interchange at the east city limits.

Funds for acquisition of land in conjunction with urban renewal projects east of First Street are not available at this time.

Murray told the group the proposed improvements are on the highway department's five- year program for right-of- way acquisition and construction. He said that after receiving location and design approval, plans will be finalized and the highway department will proceed with right- of- way acquisition. Construction will take place when funds are available.

Murray also said it is anticipated at this time that the cost of roadway construction will be financed with state funds and that the costs for adjusting utilities will be financed by utility owners and the state in accordance with highway commission policy.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

PASTORS ARE HUMAN, TOO

There is an old saying that "the grass is always greener in the other fellow's yard" ... meaning, of course, that that is the way it appears to be. Only when you get up close do you see the weeds, crab-grass, mole holes and other pesky nuisances that are painfully obvious in your own lawn.

Such is the view all too often taken of the "Man in the pulpit" — the pastor, the preacher, the priest or the rabbi. Surely he lives a life of tranquil bliss and ease! As a man close to God, he doesn't have all the problems of ordinary mortals — like me, for instance.

Recently, one of the major denominations in the United States took note of the fact that nearly 1,000 of their pastors had left the ministry during the last year ... and they set about to find out "why?" And, if misery loves company, the findings will be comforting.

Three out of four of the dropouts gave their reason for leaving the ministry as the "serious stress" they had experienced. Further, they reported, such stress was accompanied by such feelings as "anguish, worry, bewilderment, depression, fear, failure, defeat, anger, disgust, alienation, and betrayal." They also reported that they often felt drained physically, emotionally and spiritually.

One pastor commented that very few people — including members of his own church — realize how much time and effort a pastor spends in his work. Many think that all the minister has to do is prepare two or three sermons a week, spend an afternoon visiting the ill and aged, and the rest of the week he can go fishing.

Well, it's kind of good to know that pastors are human, too. In the crazy, mixed-up world we live in today, no one, it would seem, is immune to the stresses and strains of modern - day living. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker — and the preacher, too — have problems peculiar to their professions that the folk "outside" seldom know or appreciate. And doesn't that apply to just about all of us?

Since I returned from Canada, eye-balling, I was greeted with the fact that Louie Largent had passed away and Ed Fuchs was in such a shape that he couldn't get well. Now these were two good close friends of mine. Eddie served as the financial chairman of the WPA while I was the administrator and he was a real efficient officer. Of course, I bought cars from him ever since 1935 and I guess would continue to buy if he had been alive. I realize that his passing maybe was for the best, but it grieves me. It also grieves me about Louie Largent. I have known Louie ever since he moved to town and he was a really good pharmacist and I was glad to see him become the owner of White's Drug Store, because that was, I guess, maybe the first and only place that he owned that really made money and of course, he continued the same policies that Edgar White, C. C. and Glen Fish had, that is if he didn't have it he got it. I am going to miss them both, not as much as their family will, but for a fellow that wasn't kin I am going to miss them.

"A provision in the new federal minimum wage law," reports the Arizona Farm Bureau Federation, "that became effective May 1, (1974) is designed to encourage employment of students. Farmers and ranchers may employ full-time students at wage rates less than the prevailing minimum level. Under this provision full-time high school or college students can be employed at not less than 85 per cent of the required minimum wage. Such employment is limited to 20 hours per week during school sessions and 40 hours per week in non- school periods."

Costs of a fully implemented housing allowance program could reach $10 billion a year, according to the General Accounting Office.

Under the $169 million Experimental Housing Allowance Program (which most taxpayers never heard of), 18,000 low- income families in certain cities will be given an average $1,000 a year to help them rent quality housing of their choice.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development would like to see "one of the largest social experiments ever undertaken in the United States" extended to low- income homeowners.

However, the GAO advised Congress to wait for results of the experiment before expanding the program to a potential 11.8 million households. The GAO said the tests may not show the full impact on rents generally, for one thing.

WE DON'T HAVE DEPARTURES

When the man in the box says: "Now this important message..." What do you do? According to an executive of one of the leading advertising agencies, more and more people get up and go. Where? Almost anywhere that is within 60 seconds of his chair.

With the advertising in your hometown newspaper, you don't need to have someone tell the reader that this is important. The mere fact that it is printed on the pages of the newspaper tells the reader it is important! There will be no departure when the potential customer comes to your message. It will be read; it will be retained and you will have action.

A superficial look at last year's statistical record might suggest that, while the man on the street has been a victim of inflation, American business corporations have done very well out of it. Corporate aftertax profits, it would appear, increased by 27 per cent between 1972 and 1973—well ahead of the increase in the cost of living. The total after-tax income of persons increased by only 11 per cent, which was very little increase to speak of, when account is taken of the rise in the price level.

A little deeper digging in the statistics shows how misleading this comparison is. Instead of being the beneficiaries of inflation, corporations have been among its prime victims.

The difficulty has its source in customary accounting procedures which assign values to consumption of current and capital assets based on their price at the time they were originally acquired. Realistic accounting would require that the cost of the assets used up be evaluated on the basis of the higher price to be paid currently for equivalent replacements.

This makes a large difference in calculating corporate profits. About the only time the average citizen is likely to run into a similar problem is when he sells a house he has held for some time and then has to buy another house to live in. Anyone who has been through this in recent years knows that the large nominal profit he seemed to make on the first house vanished into the purchase price of the second house,leaving him no better off than before. A large element of corporate profits as currently reported is of a similarly vanishing nature.

In 1973, failure of accounting procedures to take full account of the rising cost of replacing inventories overstated total corporate profits by 17 billion dollars. And failure to take account, in the calculation of depreciation, of the rising cost of capital assets resulted in a further overstatement of profits amounting to about 8 billion dollars. We thus have 25 billion dollars included in the statistical corporate profit total that is as unreal as the phantom profits earned by an average citizen on the sale of this house.

Last year was a period of exceptionally rapid inflation in the price of items entering intc business costs. (Prices of industrial materials rose by 55 per cent during the year). As a result, corporate profits were overstated to a much larger degree in 1973 than in prior years. When allowance is made for this, corporate after-tax profits rose by only about 10 per cent between 1972 and 1973—putting the corporations approximately in line with the 11 per cent increase in the after-tax income of individuals.

The retained profits of corporations are (or should be) a major source of the capital essential to growth of our economy. Last year the retained profits of corporations, as usually recorded, were $43 billion, which looks like a very healthy figure indeed. But if you remove the $25 billion of inflationary fluff, retained profits came to only $18 billion. This is all that is available for expansion in any genuine sense. The smallness of the figure should be a matter of concern not only for corporate shareholders, but to anyone who has a stake in the growth of our economy.

For corporations, inflation has made appearances better, but reality worse.

ADVERTISING IS ESSENTIAI

Writes a Midwest publisher: "If there's anything Americans can excel at, it's boarding bandwagons. Right now a popular bandwagon is labeled 'anti- advertising' and all sorts of folks are leaping aboard. As consumers they may lose in the long run"

Chosen for particular attention by the anti-advertisers have been the advertising programs of investor-owned electric companies. The theory is that since there is already a soaring demand for energy, why should electric companies advertise their product? The answer is that electric companies advertise primarily to achieve more efficient use of plant and equipment--to smooth out the peaks and valleys of power consumption. High investments in generating equipment are no different than high investments in such things as airlines.

As one power company explained to its customers, "If we stopped advertising today and used that part of our budget to lower your bill, there would hardly be enough for each customer to notice the difference. In fact, the reverse would soon be true. Our 'load factor' (the amount we use of our existing equipment) would probably fall to the point where we'd have to charge more for a kilowatt...to cover our expenses. Electricity today costs no more than it did in the early 1950's and advertising can be given part of the credit for keeping the cost low."

HANDLE YOURSELF WITH CARE

Of all accidental injuries each year in the United States, 17 per cent happen to persons 65 and older. These accidents can often be fatal.

Older persons are involved in 26 per cent of all accidental deaths.

To help older persons do the extra planning necessary for safety, the Administration on Aging has developed "Handle Yourself With Care." This 22- page booklet is available for 40 cents from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Among other things, the booklet points out that falls are the leading cause of accidental deaths and injuries among older persons. Here are some suggested safeguards:

Keep traffic lanes through all rooms free from hazards to stumble over.

Always light the way ahead when entering a room or going up and down the stairs.

Be careful getting into and out of a tub or shower stall. Use a non-skid rubber mat or safety strips in the tub and a non-slip mat beside it. Have a grab bar installed as a help in getting in and out.

Get rid of scatter rugs or anchor them firmly with a non-slip mat underneath. Never have small rugs at top or bottom of stairs.

Wipe up spilled liquids immediately.

More than 25 per cent of all deaths from fires and explosions involve older persons. The booklet gives the following fire prevention suggestions:

Don't smoke in bed or anywhere when you are sleepy.

Don't use matches to hunt in closets.

Be sure all burners and appliances are turned off after use.

Don't wear long, full sleeves when cooking.

Following a few simple rules such as the foregoing may save a senior citizen not only a great amount of suffering but also his or her life.

IT WAS A 'HER'

This is a day of ease and informality. Saturday a United States Senator, a personal friend of ours, visited the Democrat office. But we were wearing a short sleeve shirt, no tie and no coat. And the city editor was out of town, while the managing editor was in Canada. Also present to meet U. S. Senator Eagleton was the assistant city editor, Lark Dobyns. She wore "dress pants" and admitted the editor (not us) had given her instructions to wear a dress. But she needed to be comfortable without have to watch how she was seated, also guard against gusts of wind. Her face was pretty, however, but when we looked at her before she went to church a week ago Sunday, everything we saw was a "her."

'DETENTE' DOES NOT END SPYING, SUBVERSION

"Two steps forward, one step back." That is the communist prescription for taking over a country -- or the world. After the one step back, of course, comes another step forward, and another, and another, as long as a free people permit.

Director Kelley points out that there are an increasing number of visitors from communist countries, especially from the two largest Red powers, Soviet Russia and Red China. Few citizens of these two powers come to the U.S. without a secondary mission of intelligence or counterintelligence. The same is true of visitors from Red satellite governments.

These Red visitors are causing more counterespionage activity for the FBI. Too many in Congress and in the national news media have tried to reduce our alertness against Red subversion and to deny there is any danger from communist spies or agents. Kelley hews to the historical record of both the FBI and the communists, despite pressure from "liberals."

At the same time, the war against criminals accelerates. Terrorist kidnappings and extoritions, often inspired by leftwing radical theories, require a great deal of FBI effort. Also, 2,600 suspects from orginized crime are currently being prosecuted and FBI investigations led to 15,240 criminal convictions last year. It looks like the FBI is in good, strong hands, which adds to hope for the future of our Republic. HLH

Urbane Revolutionists: British Labor Socialists have plans for 'Worker- Control' of all industries

LONDON — Karl Marx, who started it all, is in the "deep six" over in the shabby Highgate cemetery. V. I. Lenin, who gave it quite a push, is over in the Fleet Street- Strand area, reincarnated on the stage of the Aldwych Theatre. And the Socialists, who can turn out lords and knights at will, are in power at 10 Downing Street, trying to catch up with the old boys.

These urbane Socialists, led by Prime Minister Harold Wilson, are such decent cultured social revolutionaries, it's difficult to imagine their attempting to remake our capitalist society. Especially in lovely London town.

But they are!

They are preparing to nationalize most anything of size in industry -- the United Kingdom's 25 major corporations, as well as the machine tool industry, banks, construction firms, insurance, North Sea oil, mortgage and loan associations, pharmaceuticals, engine making, docks, aerospace, and virtually all that is vital in the private sector. It appears this would include such American installations as Ford, General Motors, the Chrysler combine, et al.

That's not all. There are Socialist (Labor Party) proposals for something called "planning" partnerships with 100 major corporations.

In effect, the Laborites propose a new law which would give the government the right to inspect and override the management and ownership of these companies. There would be a special National Enterprise Board which would have a staff to "help" private corporations plan their investments, their budget, their production, their sales, their hiring, their very existence.

Of course, all this depends on the outcome of the election. Virtually everybody here expects the Socialist Prime Minister Wilson to go to the nation in October. But he may wait until March in the hope that the North Sea oil wells and newly discovered huge coal deposits will bring down the price of energy and in turn all other costs.

But you haven't heard anything yet. There are plans to concentrate control and put a sort of Big Brother monitor over the press, radio, television, wipe out commercial broadcasting, and make certain the good people of Britain hear only the true social verities. As decided by the Socialists, of course.

In the highest Socialist-labor circles, they tell you that really isn't so. Just so much talk, and white, green and other colored official party "Papers" are just confetti to keep the militant Socialists happy. Don't take it seriously, they say.

Well, there is the tough Socialist, Secretary for Employment Michael Foot. When he went to see the Queen for the first time, he wore his favorite shapeless truck driver's jacket, a rumpled suit and dirty suede shoes. Foot is a remarkable scholar. A real Socialist. He believes in giving the workers power over industry. He has a formula all worked out.

So has Secretary of State for Industry Anthony Wedgwood Benn. He wants almost full nationalization. And he has had considerable backing of the Wilson cabinet.

So with Mike Foot looking forward to national "worker control," and Tony Benn looking forward to a nationalized Britain over which he would be Prime Minister someday, and with Labor Party general secretary Ron Hayward saying that the next British Labor Party government will extend state control over all key businesses in the country, it looks like Britain, our ally, is heading for the type of economy I have just seen behind the Iron Curtain.

For example, the powerful Trades Union Congress (TUC) (the AFL-CIO of Britain) wants 50 per cent of the seats on the boards of directors of the already nationalized industries -- and 50 per cent of the board seats in private businesses as well.

"As for the private sector, the TUC wishes each large company to have a supervisory board and a management board. The supervisory board would be the supreme body. It would be able to overrule the board of management, the annual meeting of shareholders (and) or the owners of all major decisions, such as technological changes, mergers, takeovers or investment plans.

"The TUC plan is for half the members of supervisory boards to be workers' representatives appointed through their unions and sharing fully in the making of the principal decisions which affect the company's workers.

"The proposal now is that through a new Companies Act, this obligation should in the first place be put on companies and conglomerate companies with more than 2,000 on their payroll but that the Minister (for Industry) should be given power in the legislation to make it apply at a later stage to companies with more than 200 workers."

Under this plan the "worker- directors" would not -- repeat, not -- need to be employes of the firm. They could be full- time officers of unions representing the employes.

And this "worker- director" could continue to lead his union.

It would be as though George Meany would be elected by the AFL-CIO to sit on the board of control at General Motors or Chase Manhattan. David Rockefeller might find that an interesting board room.

Since there is a Labor-Party Trades Union Congress Liaison Committee, it can be taken for granted that the union chiefs' views actually dominate. There is a slight difference. Erudite TUC general secretary Len Murray, who helped design the worker-control program, tells me he would want to see it develop through collective bargaining. Mike Foot and Tony Benn want it won through parliamentary action.

They really are Socialists, these fellows. Brilliant, too. When I talked with Mike Foot, a cabinet member, about this, it seemed that he was discussing an outing to Brighton's beach.

But the toughest Socialist in Britain, Jack Jones, is the closest you come to a labor boss. He's the rough- hewn leader of the huge Transport union. He calls the shots. He's a former Communist who never strayed from the left. So the Socialists do have a power base. In turn, there is price control, dividend restraint, but no wage control.

That's the picture. That's why the next election here is so vital. Our ally seems to be looking East, not West.

JACK ANDERSON AND LES WHITTEN SAYS: Hill was Ready for Rocky Probe

WASHINGTON — Even before President Ford revealed his choice of Nelson Rockefeller as Vice President, the House and Senate had put the constitutional machinery in motion for his confirmation.

A half- hour before the dramatic oval office announcement, Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., whose Senate Rules Committee skillfully handled Ford's own vice presidential hearings, was called by White House aide Tom Korciogos and told Rockefeller was the one.

Within minutes, Cannon's aides were drafting a letter to the Library of Congress requesting information on Rockefeller. The Rules chairman also began drawing up a list of how many General Accounting Office and Senate sleuths he would have to borrow for the investigation.

Even with this help and massive FBI assistance, Cannon expects it will still take weeks to look into Rockefeller's complicated financial interests in the United States and abroad. Ironically, Cannon had just wound up work on the unneeded procedures for an impeachment trial and now he must devote almost full time to the Rockefeller nomination.

"It's going to be a lot more pleasant than a trial would have been," Cannon's administrative assistant, Chet Sobsey, told us. "But it's not going to be much less work."

In the House, Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., laid aside his own clean- up work on impeachment to set up a meeting last week between his staff and top Library of Congress aides. With the selection still unknown, the two sides worked out a channel for getting a steady flow of data on Rockefeller to the committee.

Only 10 minutes after the Congress called Rodino's staff to advise them the flow of Rockefeller data would begin that afternoon. It will come in on a daily basis until the investigation is complete.

Rodino's men also met before the announcement with GAO officials to arrange to borrow accountants. The GAO is an arm of Congress, while the FBI, which contacted more than 1,000 people on Ford and compiled finished notes totaling 1,400 pages, works under the Executive branch.

OPTIONAL SAFETY: A House- passed prohibition on the new seat belts that must be hitched before the car will start could cost 85,000 lives and 5.4 million injuries in the next decade, according to a House Commerce staff memo.

The ban, sponsored by Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.H., was passed by a panicky House because of voter complaints about the "interlock" seat belts in all 1974 models. Wyman's legislation also would make air bags scheduled for 1977 models optional instead of mandatory.

In bitter opposition to the Wyman measures, the House Commerce staff memo predicts an average of 8,500 lives now being saved each year by the "interlocks" would be lost. Wyman's air bag bill could kill 13,000 a year.

The air bag measure would also knock out the proposed 30 per cent decrease in some insurance policies, according to the staff document, and it would drive up the cost of air bags for those who do choose the safety device.

In defending "interlocks," the staff report says "lap and shoulder belt usage has increased to 59 per cent in 1974 cars" as a result of the new system, compared with "six per cent in 1973 models. The number of motorists wearing no belts has decreased from 70 per cent in 1973 to 27 per cent in 1974."

The current auto safety crisis, according to other internal House memos, grew out of a meeting between Henry Ford II and former President Richard Nixon some four years ago. At that time, Ford reportedly told Nixon of his vehement opposition to air bags.

"Subsequently," says one memo, "there was a meeting with White House 'super heavy weights' (including John Ehrlichman" to discuss the air bags with then Transportation Secretary John Volpe.

As Volpe gloomily left the meeting, says the memo, he turned to a key aide and remarked, "We are in trouble on the air bag."

"This was just before the 1972 campaign," the document goes on and the White House hoped that Henry Ford "might play a role on behalf of Nixon's re- election."

Sure enough, following the Ehrlichman meeting, orders were handed down by the White House to institute the "interlock," according to the memos. Their aim: to delay or kill the air bag concept just as Henry Ford had proposed. Ford, as it turns out, contributed $49,766 to the Nixon campaign.

Now, unless Senate conferees balk at the House measure, both the "interlock" and the air bags will be junked by the automakers, and the only restraint will be the old buzzless buckles of 1972.

PLUTOCRATIC PARKS: The trinkets tourists buy in National Parks financed a Washington party complete with strolling violinists and 600 guests, including Lady Bird Johnson, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Zsa Zsa Gabor.

Decorative shrubbery was brought from a National Parks greenhouse and the guests dined on steamship beef and steelhead salmon. The spring extravaganza took six weeks of planning and $9,000. This is time and money that conservationists say the National Parks Service should have spent on improving their services to vacationers.

Couple arraigned on murder charge

ALTON — Mark Curtis Combs, also known as Pogey Schmidt, and Valerie Sue Schmidt were Formally arraigned Thursday morning on charges of first degree murder in Oregon County Magistrate Court before Judge H. L. Davidson.

The young couple has been charged with the murder of Steele businessman Riley Hastings whose body was recovered June 27 by the Ripley County sheriff's department and officers of the highway patrol in a heavily wooded area near Gatewood.

Judge Davidson denied bond for both suspects. A preliminary hearing has been scheduled for Sept. 5. The court appointed an attorney for both.

According to Oregon County Sheriff Joe Hawkins, Combs has confessed to the murder of Hastings. Hawkins said Combs took him to the site where he allegedly shot Hastings twice with a 16-gauge shotgun. The shotgun, Hawkins said, was recovered as were Hastings billfold and some personal papers.

The site where Combs reportedly shot Hastings, the sheriff said, is "well into Oregon County, being about a mile west of where the body was found."

Hawkins noted the importance of the site because of earlier questions about the venue of the case. Hastings' body originally was thought to be in Ripley County. A survey later showed the body was approximately 200 feet inside Oregon County. Combs' confession, the sheriff said, puts the case in his jurisdiction.

In his statement, Combs was quoted as saying Hastings had approached him with a cash sexual proposition for his wife. Combs, according to his statement, refused and alleged that Hastings put a shotgun to his head and threatened to kill him.

Combs told officers he took the gun away from Hastings and shot him as he ran away. Officers said Combs admitted shooting Hastings a second time as Hastings came at him with a broken bottle. An autopsy revealed two close- range shotgun wounds in Hastings' back.

In his statement, Combs said he hid the body in a cistern for one night before abandoning it at the site where it was found.

Sources report Combs said he told the Schmidt woman Hastings' truck, which the two drove to Montana, and the money he is reported to have taken from the dead man, were gifts from his brother. Combs insists, the reports continue, the Schmidt woman knew nothing about the murder.

Administration considers 10-cent gas tax boost

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Ford administration is considering a 10- cent- per-gallon boost in the federal excise tax on gasoline as a possible anti- inflation move, officials say.

"This is one of those proposals under consideration . . . along with many, many others," White House Press Secretary Jerald F. TerHorst told reporters on Thursday in confirming published reports about a possible tax boost.

The excise tax is currently 4 cents a gallon, and nationwide surveys show that the average cost of gasoline now is 55.8 cents a gallon.

TerHorst and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said President Ford has no immediate plans to ask Congress for a tax increase now. And Capitol Hill sources also said it was unlikely that Congress would enact such a tax boost in an election year.

TerHorst was asked to comment on a Los Angeles Times Report that Ford may seek the gasoline- tax increase to fight inflation and conserve energy.

"The President and his economic advisers are reviewing a whole range of possible ideas and recommendations," he said. "This is one of those proposals under study."

Simon said a gasoline tax boost has been discussed periodically since February 1973, "but it's only been one of many issues that's been discussed in the area of tax policy."

Sources reported that a detailed study of such a boost is still in the preliminary stage at the sub-Cabinet level.

The Times quoted unidentified administration officials as saying that higher gasoline taxes could reduce consumption by as much as 5 per cent, thus pressuring oil-exporting nations to lower their crude oil prices.

Such a boost would raise "Old" crude oil refers to that portion of currently produced oil that is equal to or below 1972 production levels.

The Post said advocates of the decontrol conceded it would have a short-term inflationary effect but that it would reduce demand in the long run. Reducing demand for goods is one method of fighting inflation.

$8 billion in federal revenues. The Times said some administration economic advisers suggest using the money to reduce income taxes for low and middle-income families, while others would prefer it be used to balance the budget.

Meanwhile, the Washington Post reported today that the administration also is studying whether to decontrol prices on about 75 per cent of domestically produced crude oil.

Miss Reeves, Simmons wed

EAST PRAIRIE — Wedding vows uniting Miss Mari Melissa Reeves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reeves, and Robert Wayne Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Overton R. Harris of Siloam Springs, Ark., were exchanged Aug. 2 in Nelson Memorial United Methodist Church.

The candlelight setting for the double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. John Hayes, the church pastor, was provided by lavendar tapers in a 15- branch arch candelabraum, graced on either side with matching candelabra on gold pedestals. Boxwood greenery and baby's breath appointed the candelabra and the altar railing.

Brass candlesticks with baby's breath and ivy intertwined were placed in each of the stained glass windows of the church and fresh bouquets completed the summer setting.

Wedding music was provided by John Bowen of Dexter, vocalist; Miss Laura French of Portageville, pianist; and Mrs. Weldon Bird of East Prairie, organist.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an elegant gown of ivory sheer organza and Cluny lace. The bodice, featuring a high neckline and sheer bishop sleeves, was accented down the center front by tiny self- fabric buttons. Cluny lace adorned the bodice, neckline, empire waist and sleeves and the A-line silhouette skirt fell softly to the hemline.

Her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of lavendar daisies, baby's breath and ivy centered with a corsage of white daisies.

Mrs. Danny Scruggs of East Prairie served her sister as matron of honor. Mrs. Steve Hodges of Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Marsha Munson of East Prairie were bridesmaids.

The matron of honor wore a gown of Victorian styling with a bodice of lavendar and blue organza and solid lavendar skirt. Her lavendar hat was accented with a matching pattern of organza, and she carried a nosegay of lavendar and white daisies and baby's breath. The bridesmaids gowns were also of Victorian styling featuring solid lavendar bodices and lavendar and blue organza skirts.

Candlelighters were Miss Mary Lynn Caldwell of Sikeston and Miss Deborah Davis of Hallsville. Their gowns were Victorian style and fashioned of solid lavendar organza. Flower girls were Shannon and Tonya Scruggs. Their dresses were styled like those worn by the other honor attendants.

The groom chose David Fisher of Tulsa, Okla., as his best man. Groomsmen were Kent Ziegfield of Cape Girardeau and John Howard of St. Louis. Ushers were Danny Scruggs of East Prairie and Lloyd Smith of Sikeston.

Mrs. Reeves chose for her daughter's wedding a formal gown of dusty rose fashioned with a high neckline and lace sleeves. Her corsage was of white carnations edged in rose. The groom's mother wore a floor- length gown of yellow and green organza with long sleeves, complemented with a corsage of yellow carnations.

The reception immediately following the ceremony was held in the church dining hall. The bride's table, covered with ecru lace, was centered with an arrangement of lavendar and blue daisies and a silver candelabra with lavender tapers.

The tiered wedding cake, placed on one end of the table, was topped with the wedding cake decoration used by her mother and father at their wedding. Silver punch service and other silver appointments completed the table setting.

The new Mrs. Simmons is a graduate of East Prairie High School and Southeast Missouri State University. She will teach music this fall in the Oran schools.

Simmons is a graduate of Nathan Hale High School in Tulsa, Okla., and attended Bacome Junior College in Muskogee, Okla., Northeastern Oklahoma State University and Houston University. He is presently a representative of G.A.F. Corp. at Cape Girardeau.

Ann Landers

Advice liked by homosexual

Dear Ann Landers: I hope it isn't too late to add my two-cents worth to the fray regarding the 15- year- old kid who resented taking showers with the guys in his gym class. I'm sure you received a rash of angry letters from people who thought you were evil- minded, immodest, a shameless hussy, or a hustler for nudist camps. But you were right, Ann -- as usual. Your suggestion that the boy get professional help for his "problem" was a good one and I hope he takes it.

I am a homosexual who suffered the same uneasiness about showering with my classmates. Normal boys think nothing of romping around in the buff unless, as you said, they are extremely skinny, or very fat, or have some physical deformity. The young man who wrote revealed signs of latent homosexuality. Many of my gay friends, as well as myself, went through the same thing. I know, because we talked about it.

Please print this letter for two reasons -- (a) to let your readers know that you were right. And (b) so that poor guy will realize he is not alone. -- Another One

Dear A.O.: Here's your letter and I appreciate the opportunity to re- open the subject. It's been a long time since I've been bombarded with such a blizzard of letters telling me I was "sick," "crazy," "out of my head," etc. A large number of girls wrote, which was interesting, since the same advice does NOT apply to them, although they assumed it did. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a young woman of 20, contemplating marriage to a guy I've gone with for two years. I feel we know each other very well.

My fiance is definitely a "mama's boy." He will not make a decision of any kind without consulting his mother. We've had many arguments about this and I don't know how to handle it.

I don't want him to be constantly torn between his mother and me. There's got to be a way to show him what he is doing to our love.

How can I get the idea across that a wife should come first? I don't want to damage our relationship or put his mother down. Please tell me what you would do if you were in my shoes. -- Second Choice

Dear Sec.: I'd step out of those shoes and look for a better fit. But then you aren't me. I suspect you are very much in love with the guy and will do anything rather than give him up -- in which case, here is what your life will be like. You will continue to play second fiddle to your mother-in- law and there will be many unhappy moments and bitter tears. She will be the Number One Woman in his life as long she lives and you will settle for the crumbs.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is very tight with money. I make my own clothes and sew for our three daughters. I can never pay cash for fabrics. I have to leave it in "lay-away."

The other night my husband had an important client in town and we took him and his wife to dinner. The check was $26. My husband left a $5 tip. I'm ashamed to say I slipped the $5 off the table. I needed $3.50 to get some material out of the fabric shop. The service was just fair. Was I wrong? -- ????

Dear!!!! You stole $5 from a waitress. It's as simple as that.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

When our children were very small and our economic level was somewhere between Poverty and Second Notice, we taught our children that meat would make them sick.

I know it was a rotten thing to do, but it was a temporary thing and eventually we planned to tell them Ralph Nader found out about the problem and corrected it.

However, a weasel- faced stoolie in my daughter's second grade cornered her one day and told her the facts of life about grilled steaks, roasts and bacon for breakfast and blew our whole story.

We never for a moment considered our children would have revenge until the first time we took them to a restaurant. Then it seemed all the hostility . . . the bitterness . . . the anger came out.

Our daughter (who at home ate like a parakeet with ulcers) said, "I'll have a shrimp cocktail, prime ribs medium rare, baked potato with chives, roquefort on my salad and I'll let you know about dessert."

Our son who couldn't even read at the time, held the menu upsidedown and said, "I'll have the liver pate, Cornish game hen, wild rice and a side order of crown mushrooms."

The baby, who was in a high chair slobbering on a sugar packet, opened his mouth to speak, but I put my hand over it explaining, "He's on Weight Watchers and hasn't made maintenance yet."

When we were alone my husband accosted the children. "Where in the world did you learn language like that!"

"Like what?" asked our daughter.

"Like prime ribs and shrimp and pate."

"I get around," she said her eyes narrowing. "Besides, we have a lot of catching up to do."

Today they have more than caught up. We rarely go out to dinner with them . . . only when we are assured we can arrange financing.

They have arrived at the stage where they no longer order from the left column, but the right. Our son said the other night, "I'll have the $12 Serves Two,' 'Please allow 20 minutes' and 'Add 75 cents when ordered out of season!' "

"And I'll have the 'Expertly Prepared By Our Chef At Your Table,' " said his brother.

As we gnawed on the bread sticks awaiting our dinner, we saw a young couple over in the corner each eating a steak. Nearby, their two young children were having a fight with a plate of french fries and blowing straws out of their casings.

"Would you look at those beautiful meatless children," I said miserably.

"It's only a matter of time before some weasel-faced stoolie blabs," said my husband.

Chaffee youths claim top honors

CHAFFEE — Chaffee boys were well represented in the baseball skills competition co- sponsored by the Chaffee Babe Ruth league and the R. T. French Mustard Company of Rochester, N. Y.

Three boys won top honors and three took runnerup positions.

Each of the winners will be presented trophies by French's Mustard which along with the Babe Ruth organization sponsors similar competitions in cities nationwide. The program is intended to promote the development of baseball skills in a spirit of friendly competition, matching boys of the same age.

Terry Glenzy was the program director.

Bench says Brock can

"I honestly didn't think Maury Wills' record would be broken, but Lou's made a believer out of me," said the Cincinnati Reds All-Star catcher.

"It will be truly unbelievable if he does it," said Bench in tribute of Brock's bid to erase the all-time season stolen-base record.

Brock is closing in on a record that many of baseball's old guard said would remain out of reach for years.

The St. Louis Cardinal star has 86 steals, well ahead of Wills' record pace of 1962. He needs 19 steals in the remaining 37 games to crack the mark.

"I'm glad he's out of our hair," said Bench. The Reds and Cards do not meet again this regular season.

"I got him the last two times we played St. Louis," recalled Bench. "But all told, he's got more on me than I've got on him," said the strong-armed Oklahoman, considered by many as one of the best defensive catchers in history.

"He's a true artist in every sense of the word," said Bench. "He's not the fastest guy in baseball, yet he developed his thing and does the most with it."

"I don't see anything stopping Lou. He's proven he's durable. The guy is 35 years old. But I don't know what's going through his mind right now.

"There's a combination of things involved. First, the Cards are in a tough pennant race, so he has to be thinking team first. Second, he has to avoid any slump. He has to get on base to steal," said Bench.

"His strength? He's so daring. And he's got his timing down to a split-second. Any time he gets that pitcher to give him a step, he's gone. Sometimes it will be in a pitcher's high kick, or something in the delivery," added Bench

Chaffee to honor youth leader

CHAFFEE — James A. "Buck" Foeste is a man who has served Chaffee gallantly since his day's as young naval seaman during World War II. Mr. Foeste is a man dedicated to the youth of Chaffee. He will be honored Saturday night.

We must backtrack to 1969 to fully realize the impact of this man on Chaffee's youth program. In 1969 Chaffee had seven little league baseball teams, but no Junior or Senior Babe Ruth league. None of the teams had a complete set of uniforms and a limited budget of $479.99. Mr. Foeste was appointed Boy's League Commissioner during this season. Two new teams were added in the 1970 season and every team had a matching set of uniforms. He also started a Pony league team this year.

The 1971 season was one which would hold great significance for Buck Foeste, because Chaffee's first sanctioned Jr. Babe Ruth league was formed. When this league was formed Mr. Foeste set two major goals for the league: (1) To win the Jr. Babe Ruth State Championship (2) To have at least one boy from Chaffee play major league baseball. One of these goals were reached in the 1974 season, the State Championship.

The first rewards of the organized baseball program came in the 1972 season when the Jr. Babe Ruth team became the Co- Champion of the State of Missouri. The operating budget that year had grown from $479.99 in 1969 to $2,618.55.

Late in 1972 Buck took on another responsibility, he was appointed to the Park Board and was immediately elected it's treasure. He accepted this responsibility and immediately brought the fiscal affairs of the board into perspective with his accounting and management procedures. What started out as a two night a week job as a little league manager had now mushroomed into an almost full time job as a public servant serving without pay.

In 1973 another baseball team was added, a Senior Babe Ruth team. In '73 the city's 35 year swimming pool succumbed to old age and Buck Foeste took over the job of renovating it and the pool remained open.

By 1973 the Chaffee baseball program had grown to points of being recognized as one of the best small town programs in the state. Inquiries from surrounding communities began to pour in seeking advice and Mr. Foeste gained a well deserved reputation as an organizer both in the field of baseball and youth recreation as a whole. Chaffee's total recreation program was second to none in the area. More than 30 teams and individual games were being provided for the youth of all ages at the city park. The total recreation program was serving between 200 and 300 youth daily at parks.

The summer of 1974 started like all others for Buck Foeste, but this was the year to win it all. He was appointed Eastern Zone Commissioner for Junior Babe Ruth in Missouri. He bid and received the 1974 Missouri Junior Babe Ruth State Tournament. The host team Chaffee walked away with the State Championship.

During the past five years, Buck Foeste has given of himself unselfishly to this community. He has seen hundreds of boys go through a baseball program second to none. He has served our youth in a way that we as parents could never repay, but the smile of a nine year who caught his first fly ball or a twelve year old who pitched a no- hitter is the reward that Buck Foeste seeks.

The success the Chaffee Boys have earned during the past few years cannot be measured by the trophies they have won, but by the dedication to good citizenship, through the spirit of competition. At the finals of the Babe Ruth Regional Tournament in Ottawa, Kansas, they unanimously chose Chaffee to receive the sportsmanship award. Buck Foeste with tears in his eyes, looked up and said, "Boys, thats what it's all about."

Buck Foeste has made many days ones to remember for our children and now its our time to make August 24, 1974 a day he will remember for the rest of his life.

Teen Challenge rally set Sunday

A Teen Challenge rally at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Miner Baptist Church, located at intersection of Highway 62 and Route H, will feature the Rev. Philip Breithaupt and The New Creations from Mid- America Teen Challenge Training Center at Cape Girardeau.

The New Creations, the official choir at the center, will share in music and testimony how they have found mental and physical cure from drug addiction through Christ, according to the Rev. Grady Etheridge, the Miner pastor.

The choir members are former law breakers, drug addicts, alcoholics and other delinquent youth. Their choir director, the Rev. Mr. Breithaupt, has served as tenor soloist with the Revivaltime choir on the ABC radio network and has recorded three albums.

As regional representative for the center, he has addressed civic clubs, high school assemblies, universities, student organizations and churches of many denominations in behalf of the Teen Challenge program.

Mid-America Teen Challenge Training Center is directed by the Rev. Herb Meppelink, the founder of Detroit Teen Challenge. It serves as the rehabilitation, training and re- entry program for Teen Challenge induction centers in Midwestern states.

The training center is located just west of the Mississippi River on a farm which provides a wholesome atmosphere where delinquent youth can seek a lasting solution to their problems.

Teen Challenge is a non-profit, religious- oriented organization founded by the Rev. David Wilkerson to help troubled youth through a moral and spiritual approach. The Rev. Mr. Wilkerson has authored 14 books and is considered a foremost authority on youth today. His first book, "The Cross and The Switchblade", tells the story of Teen Challenge. It is an eight- million copy best- seller that has been translated into 38 different languages and has been made into a feature- length movie starring Pat Boone.

Teen Challenge has over 60 induction centers in the United States and Puerto Rico and eight centers in eight foreign countries. The national average cure rate for hard core addicts who have graduated from the Teen Challenge program is 60.8 per cent.

The integrated, free, non-sectarian spiritual services and physical aid given by the Teen Challenge program is made possible by gifts from churches, foundations and interested individuals.

This week's Uniform INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
By Dr. William H. Taft

FOR AUGUST 25, 1974

Scripture: Colossians 3:12-4:1,5,6

PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS IN CHRIST

The Christian has an obligation to express Christ-like attitudes in all of his relationships in the church, the family, and the business world.

Today's lesson concerns a review of what it means to a Christian when he moves from his church environment on Sunday to his life outside. We must remind ourselves that if we confess Christ to be the center of our lives we must practice His teachings in all activities.

Many basic principles are reviewed today by Paul, who notes some of the distinctive Christian qualities of life, including compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, and patience.

There are other suggestions in this letter that no doubt will upset some of today's news makers.

"Wives, be subject to your husbands, as is fitting in the Lord," Paul wrote, adding, "Husbands, love your wives, and do not be harsh with them."

These ideas have been heard in other books including Ephesians, Peter, and Titus. At that time the male domination theory was not challenged. Today, this concept is being reviewed with many legal changes underway.

Paul did not see the wife as being an inferior person, not as being a slave to her husband. Under the traditions of the day, the man headed the family. He was not expected to be a tyrant if he professed Christianity.

The feminist movement would have been out of place in Paul's day. However, today's women leaders could take some comfort in the thought that the husband's commands to his wife should be considerate and loving.

Christianity is a religious concept that holds to basic views as presented by such writers as Paul, yet, it can adjust to changing conditions.

For example, Paul reminded the children to obey their parents in everything "for this pleases the Lord." Yet Paul warned the fathers about the dangers of provoking their children into becoming too discouraged.

One must be on guard in reading these commands. Paul certainly did not approve of any husband or father who would issue any order contrary to God's teachings.

A child should not be expected to follow any parent's command that is immoral. The same would be true with a husband-wife relationship.

Another problem is this lesson relates to the practice of slavery. Paul did not rule out slavery. Rather, he advised the slaves to obey their masters too. And the masters were directed to be just and fair with the slaves.

One wonders why Paul didn't advocate the end to slavery. Ralph Waldo Emerson had a more modern answer when he wrote, "If you put chains around the neck of a slave, the other end fastens itself around your own."

To Paul all persons were equal in the eyes of God, whether they were slaves or masters. All possessed full human dignity; all were worthwhile to God.

This Scripture suggests that we all need to examine and correct our existing attitudes and relationships with others. We should note that love and understanding will improve all such contacts.

Paul could visualize an eventual world peace if Christ-like relations started with such husband-wife, parent-children, and master-slaves contacts.

When these persons learn to live together and to treat each other as human beings, then such actions would spread around the world. Peace would follow.

Unjust treatment, however, continues to exist in this world. Some husbands still view their wives as chattel. Some parents still over-direct their children's activities. And some employers still treat their employees as slaves.

A Christian must be more than a Sunday worshiper. He must speak and act as Paul has advised in this letter. He must demonstrate his beliefs in action.

Religion makes news

NEW YORK (AP) — Hindsight puts events in clearer perspective and points up the really decisive occurrences, the news that shapes history. From that long-range view, some experts have found that the biggest stories often have been religious.

"It came as a great surprise," says Will H. Yolen, chairman of the publishing committee of the Overseas Press Club. The club recently tapped the seasoned news judgment of members in compiling a list of the greatest news happenings of all time.

Of 140 suggestions, he says at least a third of them fell in the religious category. The club's board, made up of veteran correspondents, whittled the list to 23 top events for a book to be called "Newsbreak."

Eight of those prime occurrences were of a religious nature, making the subject loom larger than any other over the long stretch of time in the making of really big news.

Those in the religious category are:

"The Creation," "The Tower of Babel," "Cain Kills Abel— Homicide I," "Moses and Law and Order," "Buddha—Asia's Light of the World," "Christ and the Resurrection," "The Popes" and "The Children's Crusade" to the Holy Land in the Middle Ages.

The other biggest newsmakers of history which are included, some of them also containing religious elements, are:

"The First Word," "The Invenion of the Wheel," "Discovery of the Circulation of Blood," "The Invention of Money," "Helen and the Fall of Troy" and "Genghis Khan and the Huns Turn Back."

Twenty writers, all veterans of overseas assignments for various major news organizations, are producing the volume.

THE BIBLE

149. David Brings The Ark Home

After David and his forces had overwhelmed the Philistines in the valley of Rephaim, they set out to bring the Ark of the Covenant into the city of David. They placed the ark upon a new cart, driven by Abinadab's sons, Uzzah and Ahio. However, as the cart neared Nachon's threshing floor, the oxen shook the cart, and Uzzah touched the ark with his hand to steady it, and God smote him dead on that spot for his error.

David feared for the safety of the ark, so he carried it aside to the house of Obededom the Gittite, where it rested for three months. Then David and his forces went to move the ark into the city of David after sacrificing oxen and a fat lamb. Then they accompanied the progress of the ark with shouting, dancing, and the sounds of trumpets and other musical instruments.

"And they brought in the ark of the Lord, and set it in his place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had pitched for it: and David offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before the Lord. And...he blessed the people in the name of the Lord of hosts." (II Samuel 6:17-18)

Cape Jaycees to sponsor pageant

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Tri- County Junior Miss Pageant, sponsored by the Cape Girardeau Jaycees, Pageant is open to all Bollinger, Cape Girardeau and Scott county girls, aged 16 through 18, who are high school seniors and will be held at 7 p.m. Oct. 12 in the Holiday Inn.

Three local winners will be selected, one each from Bollinger, Cape and Scott counties.

More than $700,000 in college scholarships and other awards is being offered to local, state and national winners this year. A total of $55,000 in scholarships, topped by a $10,000 prize to the 1975 America's Junior Miss, will be awarded at the national pageant in Mobile. Ala.

Local prizes include a scholarship to Southeast Missouri State University or a college of the contestant's choice.

"Mental alertness, scholarship and personality are among the prime requisites," he said. "For example, in the 1974 America's Junior Miss Pageant at Mobile last May, all 50 of the girls taking part had a B average or better in their school studies.

Scholastic ability, good health, enthusiasm and warm, wholesome personality, along with a record of interest in school and civic affairs were among the major factors in the success of the 1974 America's Junior Miss winner, Karen Morris of Wyoming."

Bucek said judging in the local pageant will be based, as it is in state and the national events, on the following standards:

Scholastic achievement (15 per cent) — Based on a careful review of high school transcripts of grades and college board examinations by qualified educators.

Mental alertness and judges conference (35 per cent) — Based on an interview of each contestant by the judges. Here the judges look for a sense of values, clarity of expression, knowledge and perception, personal appearance and ability in human relations.

Poise and appearance (15 per cent) — This is based on the appearance of the contestant in evening gown. Poise, grace, grooming, good taste, carriage and posture are considered.

Youth fitness (15 per cent) — Based on coordination, appearance, correct posture, carriage and grace in sportswear.

Creative and performing arts (20 per cent) — Based on a three- minute talent presentation by each contestant with consideration to originality, technical ability, appropriateness of selection and costume, performance and presentation.

First orientation will be held Sept. 11 at 7 p.m. at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. Parents should accompany the girls. Each contestant should bring a photograph suitable for printing in the newspaper. If a photograph is not available, there will be a photographer taking pictures that evening.

Anyone interested in more information or an application may write to Junior Miss Pageant, P. O. Box 4, Cape Girardeau, Mo. 63701.

Dexter firemen ward off birds

DEXTER — Dexter firemen twice this week have warded off the threatening arrival of thousands of potentially dangerous starlings in an area just north of Highway 114 on Truitt Street. And they report intentions to continue efforts in that direction until the threat is gone.

Everyone who lived in Dexter in the winter of 1964 will no doubt recall the invasion of millions of small feathered friends who turned into threatening disease- laden nuisances when they settled in an area southwest of town.

Starlings, numbering high in the millions drew national attention to this community as carriers of histoplasmosis. Officials found it necessary to vaccinate school children and residents were cautioned to signs of the serious illness the birds carried.

Several attempts were made to drive out the diseased birds, and finally, after six long nights of endless efforts, the Dexter fire department succeeded in ridding the city's southwest side of the pests.

Firemen kept a vigil at the site, constantly sounding the shrill alarm and fire whistles in attempts to frighten the birds away and after almost a solid week, they at last departed.

The Dexter fire department, following a mayoral request Monday night, arrived at the intersection of Truitt and Walnut streets with their alarms shrieking and colored lights flashing through the trees as thousands of starlings sprung from the overhead branches. Two trucks Monday night spent over an hour ridding the area of the feathered nuisances. Three more trucks arrived in the same vicinity Tuesday night but few birds were found.

Assistant Fire Chief Larry Hall explained that the city had reports of the threatening birds and that necessary precautions were being taken to halt the start of another "invasion" before the situation got out of hand. And, the department's efforts seem to have worked.

The starlings may just settle in another part of town, Hall explained, but so far no reports of the birds concentrating on any other area has been sighted.

So, for the time being anyway, the creatures pose no immediate problem for this area.

Prairie man bound over for burglary, stealing

CHARLESTON — Preliminary hearings Thursday before Magistrate T. J. Brown Jr. resulted in two men being bound over to Circuit Court on felony charges.

Larry Dale Houston of East Prairie was bound over on a charge of burglary and stealing in connection with the break-in at a house owned by Choate Farms in the Dorena Community on July 21. Four guns, a stereo combination, microwave oven and saddle were taken from the home occupied by Hoyte Choate.

Testifying during the preliminary were Hoyt Choate, Deputy Sheriffs Jack Ivie and Norris Grissom, August Nilges of Jefferson City, Rueben Bennett of rural East Prairie, Larry Houston and his father, Barney Houston of East Prairie.

According to Choate, he discovered the break-in and theft about 11 p.m. July 21. He said he found a billfold, later identified as belonging to Larry Houston, in the kitchen area of the home. He then called Rueben Bennett, who lived nearby, and Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie.

The microwave oven, taken in the break-in, was entered in evidence. Other items recovered included the saddle and one speaker from the stereo unit.

August Niles, latent print examiner for the highway patrol, testified he made comparison tests on fingerprints and palm prints sent to the lab by the sheriff's department. According to Nilges, a right thumb print and two right palm prints, taken from the oven, matched those of Larry Houston.

Larry and Barney Houstor were called as defense witnesses. According to their testimony, they had been painting the Choate house for about four days prior to the break-in and on several occasions had entered the house to wash paint brushes, get drinks of water and use the bathroom.

Larry Houston said he had moved the oven a number of times from the kitchen counter to a table so that water and paint would not splash on it while he was washing brushes. Barney Houston said he did not see his son move the oven but on occasion he himself had put a rag over it so that it would not be splattered.

Houston, who is free on $2,500 bond, will appear in Circuit Court Sept. 10.

Jim Andrews Jr. of Charleston was bound over on a felonious assault charge stemming from the June 26 stabbing of Tim Whitney Jr., also of Charleston. Andrews remains free on $1,500 bond and will appear Sept. 10 in Circuit Court.

Witnesses in the preliminary included Tim Whitney Jr., Julius Owens and Bobby Whitney of Charleston.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Sept. 12 for Raymond Hamilton of Anniston, charged with forcibly breaking, entering with felonious and burglarious intent to steel. Hamilton, who remains in custody in lieu of $2,500 bond, is accused of entering the home of Julius Kent of Charleston Route One on Aug. 9 and stealing a shotgun, two men's shirts, a flashlight and commodities.

Trial for Oliver Williams was taken off Thursday docket and reset for Sept. 5. Williams, charged with disturbing the peace, remains free on $500 bond.

An attorney was appointed to represent William Franklin Sloan of Wilson City on a charge of burglary, involving breaking and entering, and stealing. Bond was set at $2,500 for Sloan, who is accused of breaking into the J. L. Groves Liquor Store in Wyatt on Aug. 18 and stealing 14 cases and one six pack of beer.

A preliminary for Odell 'Tadpole'' Johnson of Charleston, charged with a felony of molesting a minor with immoral intent, was set for Sept. 19. Johnson is free on $2,500 bond.

Edward J. Moss of Lebanon, Tenn. was fined a total of $175, plus court costs on charges of driving while intoxicated and having no operator's license. If Moss fails to pay the fines he must serve 30 days in the county jail.

Jack Achter of East Prairie received a 30- day suspended jail sentence on a disturbing the peace charge and was placed on one year probation. Conditions of his probation include obeying the law and paying court costs of $26.

Other misdemeanor charges and fines included: Mary Ann Morgan of East Prairie, speeding, $29; Judith Ann Norman Barksdale of Sikeston, speeding, $37; Austin Moore, violation of the wildlife code, $26; Willa Fay Taylor of East Prairie, speeding, $31; Ron Holder, common assault, $73.50; Charleston Winston Chambers of Anniston, wrong side of road and no operator's license, $56; Donald Lee Hubbard of East Prairie, speeding, $35;

Phillip Carlyle of East Prairie, no motorcycle license, no inspection, no endorsement on driver's license and driving without head lamps, $41.50; Austin Moore and James Moore, trespassing, $24.25 each; Stephen Russell Lloyd of East Prairie, underage possession of five per cent beer, $66 and speeding, $41; Kenneth Davis Garrett of East Prairie, speeding, $26; and Johnny Hunt of East Prairie, common assault, $46.50.

Default judgment of $181.70 was awarded First Bank of East Prairie in a note suit brought against David Griffs.

Cases continued to Aug. 29 were: Ronald E. Williams, taking fish by seine and taking fish by commercial fishing equipment without proper permit; Cecil Lee Williams, violation of the wildlife code; and C. W. Mixon of Wyatt, driving without an operator's license.

A charge of driving while intoxicated against Charles Everett Jordan of Charleston was continued to Sept. 5 and charges of disturbing the peace and resisting arrest against Ann Butler of Charleston was continued to Sept. 19.

A Novel Conspiracy

WINTER KILLS. By Richard Condon. Dial 304 Pages $7.95.

Nick Thirkield, half-brother of assassinated President Timothy Kegan, learns from the deathbed confession of an employe that his brother was not killed by one psychopath. There was a second gun, a conspiracy.

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing in this thriller by the author of "The Manchurian Candidate."

Father of the hero and the dead president, Thomas Kegan is a super-rich oil and industrial tycoon who enlists the power of his business empire to help Nick's investigation along. Assorted scientists, policemen, labor leaders, film stars and journalists pop in and out of the fast-paced story. Illusion and truth are mingled and oilman-turned-detective Nick has problems untangling the thread of truth he seeks.

Condon uses dates as chapter headings, easing the transition to flashbacks of previous events. It isn't so difficult to figure out who is behind the assassination conspiracy — it's the WHY of it that is elusive.

What's the law?

The case of the thirsty beer drinker

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Barney was stopped by a police car while driving a truck into a "dry" state. It contained 450 cases beer and it seemed that his cargo had been showing. The result? His brew was confiscated and Barney was livid.

"You can't do that," he protested to the police officers. "I know the law. Bringing beer into this state for a person's own use is perfectly legal. And all that beer's for me. I get awfully thirsty. Consequently, I want my beer back."

"You may be a great beer drinker," responded the officers, "But, doing a little quick arithmatic, 450 cases of beer is equal to 10,800 cans. And you couldn't guzzle down that amount of suds if your life depended upon it. Therefore, the obvious conclusion is that you intended to sell it and that makes the confiscation absolutely legal."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give thirsty Barney back his beer?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that even at four or five cans a day, it would have taken Barney six years to consume all the beer he had been caught hawling. Unless he was a tremendously provident person who was ainticipating a dire drought in the beer market and was protecting his inordinate thirst for the invigorating beverage for six years to come, concluded the judge, his story that he had bought the beer for his own consumption was highly improbable and not worthy of belief.

FFA students win prizes

CHARLESTON — Charleston High School Future Farmers of America members won several prizes Saturday at the Missouri State Fair in Sedalia, according to Ed Robertson, vocational agriculture teacher at CHS.

The boys were entered in the FFA farm mechanics exhibition category, and while the prize money has not yet been computed by fair authorities. the local entrants will probably win "about $200, according to Robertson.

The teacher said last year was the first time he had "been brave enough to enter anything in state competition" but the boys won $200, so he figured it was a good bet to try again.

Prizes on large exhibits are purple, gold, silver and bronze ribbons. On smaller items, the prizes are gold, silver and bronze ribbons, Robertson said.

Comprehensive plan explained

Four members of the Chaffee City Council and Mayor Sally Wehmeyer met with Jim Chronister and three members of the Chaffee Housing Authority Commission Thursday night at the Housing Authority office.

Chronister, executive director of the authority, explained to new councilmen and other interested councilmen the city's comprehensive plan and the workable report which must be filed with the U. S. government every two years.

All councilmen had been invited to the meeting, at which no voting took place, only an explanation of the plan and report.

Overpass now open

CHARLESTON — The Interstate 57 overpass on Highway 62 east of Charleston was officially opened to traffic about 2 p.m. Tuesday, according to Charles Castleberry, maintenance area supervisor for the State Highway Department in Mississippi County.

Castleberry cautioned motorists to observe the traffic signal, which is now in operation for Highway 62 traffic.

The signal is traffic-actuated by the eastbound traffic coming out of Charleston. Castleberry said motorists should pull all the way up to the stop line on the highway in order to activate the light. The green light goes on about 30 seconds after the switch is activated, he said.

Charleston bands to meet Tuesday

CHARLESTON — All members of the Charleston High school band and freshman band are to report to the high school band room Tuesday morning at 9:30. Uniforms will be issued to members of the senior high band.

All band members are expected to be there, according to band director John Schofield.

Bill giving stronger pension protection sent to President

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill giving much stronger protection to members of private pension plans has been sent to President Ford, climaxing years of work by Congress.

The Senate on Thursday passed the compromise version 85-0. The House had cleared it on Tuesday 407-2.

Ford has indicated he will sign the bill when a ceremony can be arranged for the congressional sponsors to attend.

The bill seeks to guarantee that 35 million to 40 million persons covered by the plans get the retirement benefits they had expected.

Congressional studies showed most plans worked satisfactorily but that thousands of persons never received promised benefits.

The measure also provides new tax incentives to self-employed persons to improve their own pension programs and for employes to set up individual programs when their companies do not have a plan.

Sponsors said it was a major step in improving the pension system but conceded they would like to see further progress.

Some critics have said the measure is inadequate because it would not require firms to set up pension plans or raise present payments.

About half the U.S. work force now is covered by plans. The average payment is approximately $141 a month.

Major provisions of the bill:

Eligibility—All employes would have to be admitted to a pension plan, if the company has one, at age 25 and after one year of service.

Vesting (an employe's guaranteed right to a pension after a specified period of service)— The company would have to adopt one of three alternatives under which the employe would have 100 per cent vested rights after being on the payroll no longer than 15 years.

Funding—Employers would have to put sufficient amounts into pension funds in the future to meet pension liabilities incurred each year. To make up for any deficits for past service, employers would have to make annual payments so that full funding would be achieved in 30 years, or 40 years in a few cases.

Portability—A voluntary portability plan would be set up under which an employe changing jobs could have his vested credits transferred to his new employer. Alternatively, the credits could be transferred to a new government corporation which would establish separate accounts for individual workers.

Plan Termination Insurance—A new government corporation would be set up to pay benefits when a company went out of business and its pension fund lacked sufficient assets or when a fund in a going concern could not meet its obligations.

Payments would be limited to 100 per cent of the average monthly wage in a recipient's five highest-paid years or $750 a month, whichever is lower.

Self-employed Persons—Doctors, lawyers and other self-employed persons would be allowed to put up to 15 per cent of income, up to a maximum of $7,500 a year, in tax-exempt funds into their own pension plans. Presently, they are limited to 10 per cent or $2,500.

Tax incentives for individual employes not in private pension plans would permit the employes to put up to $1,500 a year in tax-exempt funds into their own plans.

Battery stolen

A 12- volt battery was taken from a car belonging to John Inman, 305 Moore Ave., between 3 p.m. Wednesday and 10:25 a.m. Thursday.

Inman told police the battery was taken from his car while it was parked on the southwest side of the house.

The battery was a year old and valued at $15.

Car stolen here

A 1969 Oldsmobile station wagon was stolen between 5 and 10 p.m. Thursday from the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. parking lot on Center Street.

Police said the car belonged to Paul C. Meyer, 815 N. Kingshighway.

World news in brief

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS correspondent Dan Rather is being reassigned to other duties after covering the White House for nearly eight years.

The network said on Thursday that Rather will be replaced by Bob Schieffer, CBS's Pentagon reporter. Phil Jones, who covered President Ford when he was vice president, also will join the network's White House staff.

Rather, 42, will continue to anchor CBS's Saturday night news programs and will start anchoring the Sunday ones, the network said. Senior vice president William Small called Rather's new assignment "a promotion to a better job."

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Erskine Caldwell, author of "Tobacco Road" and "God's Little Acre," is reported in satisfactory condition after undergoing surgery to remove a growth on a lung.

The 70-year-old novelist was operated on on Tuesday at Methodist Hospital. His wife, Virginia, said Thursday that her husband was "coming along fine." Caldwell came here for a checkup at the Mayo Clinic.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman has given a court-ordered deposition in connection with a $840,000 damage suit filed by 14 young people.

The plaintiffs claim they were prevented from attending a speech by former President Richard M. Nixon at a 1971 rally. Defendants in the suit are Haldeman; two former White House advance men; the Charlotte police department; the Secret Service; and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Haldeman, also a defendant in the upcoming Watergate cover-up trial, declined to comment publicly on the suit. He was met at the airport on Thursday by five hecklers but ignored them.

after a short chase and returned home where he found his daughter. He said she was badly beaten with an extremely swollen facial area, making it difficult to talk. She was able to tell him she had been beaten and could identify her assailants. He said the items were turned over to Stoddard County Sheriff, Ralph Mouser.

pointed out ways in which the state could save in excess of $12 million, or over $1 million a month during his first year in office.

"Doctors and lawyers are not about to disclose the names and addresses of patients and clients who are paying them more than $500 a year just so they can qualify to serve on school boards and city councils. It would also apply if their wives were to become candidates.

The campaign reform issue has been endorsed by all other elected officials in the state and many legislators. Kirkpatrick, while finding fault with it, says he endorses the general concept.

"Every four years, some 45,000 Missourians seek public office, supported by as many as 135,000 committees," Kirkpatrick said.

"I hope voters consider how this proposal will affect the candidates running at the level closest to the people as well as increase the cost of government. In the secretary of state's office alone, operations cost would be an additional $300,000."

He said the proposal also failed to provide sufficient time for implementation, necessary funding, a centralized location for reports filed by local candidates, and a notification procedure to provide the secretary of state with the names and addresses of candidates and committees to whom he must supply record manuals and report forms.

"The problem with an initiative proposal is the people must either take it or leave it," Kirkpatrick said.

"I believe the general assembly will move slowly in altering any proposal enacted by a direct vote of the people. This means we could be burdened with an unworkable system."

Mills tries to spread some cheer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, is trying to spread some cheer along a gloomy Wall Street with a reminder that tax revision may be on the way.

After the stock market closed Thursday at its lowest since July 14 1970, Mills' office released a statement that noted the sagging market.

It said the tax revision bill to "be given final consideration by the committee beginning Sept. 11 will include a number of provisions in the area of capital gains and losses, which should be of material benefits to taxpayers and investors across the nation."

Among these provisions will be a reduction in the capital gains tax for assets held more than five years so that no more than 30 per cent of the gain on the sale of the assets would be subject to tax.

The bill also would give all homeowners the relief now afforded to taxpayers over 65 on the sale of a personal residence. If enacted, the amendment would allow any gain on the sales price of a residence up to $35,000 to escape taxation. On amounts above that, a pro rata reduction would be provided.

JEANNIE

In Color, Saturdays, 8:00-8:26 A.M. CDT. Season Premiere: September 7, 1974

Starting its second season on the CBS Television Network on Saturday, September 7, 1974, JEANNIE is now one of the most highly rated of all animated adventure series on television.

Based on the original live-action series, "I Dream of Jeannie," JEANNIE's star is a teenager endowed with a fabulous magical power. This power, activated by a twitch of her pony tail, also has a way of going awry. JEANNIE's master is Cory, the most popular boy in the class, and although she means well, JEANNIE's good intentions for Cory have a remarkable way of making his life hilariously complicated.

JEANNIE is aided in her schemes by Babu, her 350-pound brother who is an apprentice genie. Babu's source of magic is the phrase "yapple- dapple." But, often, Babu can't quite get the words out in the proper order. Instead, he tries "dapple- yapple," "apple bapple" and so on, which only frustrates the matter even further. Naturally, only a very select few know that Jeannie and Babu are genies - a secret that leads to loads of fun for just about everybody but poor Cory.

JEANNIE

In Color, Saturdays, 8:00-8:26 A.M. CDT. Season Premiere: September 7, 1974

Starting its second season on the CBS Television Network on Saturday, September 7, 1974, JEANNIE is now one of the most highly rated of all animated adventure series on television.

Based on the original live-action series, "I Dream of Jeannie," JEANNIE's star is a teenager endowed with a fabulous magical power. This power, activated by a twitch of her pony tail, also has a way of going awry. JEANNIE's master is Cory, the most popular boy in the class, and although she means well, JEANNIE's good intentions for Cory have a remarkable way of making his life hilariously complicated.

JEANNIE is aided in her schemes by Babu, her 350-pound brother who is an apprentice genie. Babu's source of magic is the phrase "yapple- dapple." But, often, Babu can't quite get the words out in the proper order. Instead, he tries "dapple- yapple," "apple bapple" and so on, which only frustrates the matter even further. Naturally, only a very select few know that Jeannie and Babu are genies - a secret that leads to loads of fun for just about everybody but poor Cory.

JEANNIE is a Hanna-Barbera Production and is produced by Art Scott.

'BELL SYSTEM FAMILY THEATRE' WILL PRESENT SERIES OF SPECIALS ON MONTHLY BASIS ON NBC TELEVISION NETWORK IN '74 -75 SEASON

The award- winning "Bell System Family Theatre" will begin its fifth consecutive season on the NBC Television Network in September. Seven major specials will be presented during the 1974-75 season, including musical variety shows and dramas drawn from contemporary and classic literature.

All "Bell System Family Theatre" productions are under the full sponsorship of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company (through N. W. Ayer & Son Inc.).

The specials are to be presented on a monthly basis and will feature a roster of popular performances, including Richard Chamberlain, Bing Crosby, Peggy Fleming, James Earl Jones, James Mason, Sarah Miles, David Niven and Michael York.

The curtain goes up Thursday, Sept. 5 (7-8 p.m. CDT), as "Peggy Fleming Visits the Soviet Union" is colorcast for a second time. The critically acclaimed special, filmed entirely on location in the U.S.S.R., focuses on the internationally famous skating star as she shares the spotlight with popular Russian performers.

"The Cay," a drama starring James Earl Jones, will be presented Monday, Oct. 21 (7-8 p.m. CDT). The play, adapted from the acclaimed novella of the same title by Theodore Taylor, tells of an aging West Indian seaman (Jones) who rescues and cares for an American boy when their ship is torpedoed by a Nazi submarine during World War II. Alfred Lutter III, 12, plays the boy.

A new, two- hour version of the Charles Dickens classic, "Great Expectations," will feature leading British performers Friday, Nov. 22 (7-9 p.m. CDT). Michael York, as Pip, Sarah Miles, as Estella, and James Mason, as the convict, Magwitch, are the stars. Margaret Leighton, Robert Morley, Anthony Quayle and Andrew Ray have key roles in the drama, which is being filmed in England.

Bing Crosby continues a "Bell System Family Theatre" tradition when he stars in a yule special tentatively titled "The Bing Crosby Christmas Show" Sunday, Dec. 15 (7-8 p.m. CDT). Members of his family and guest stars will join Bing for the festivities.

Richard Chamberlain is the star of the new, two- hour production of the Alexandre Duman story of adventure and intrigue, "The County of Monte Cristo," to be presented Friday, Jan. 10 (7-9 p.m. CDT). The special will be filmed in Europe, at locales including the Chateau d'If off the coast of Marseilles, France, which figures prominently in the tale.

"Highlights of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus," bringing to viewers the excitement and fun of the Big Top, will be colorcast Sunday, Feb. 16 (6:30 -7:30 p.m. CDT). Featured will be new acts from the 105th edition of The Greatest Show on Earth.

David Niven stars as "The Canterville Ghost" in a new adaptation of Oscar Wilde's humorous yet poignant story, to be colorcast Monday, March 10 (7-8 p.m. CDT). The cast includes James Whitmore and his wife, Audra Lindley, as the American couple who bring their family to a haunted English manor -- much to the displeasure of the resident ghost.

'HIGH ROLLERS'

Monday- Fridays, NBC Television Network. (In Color, 10-10:30 a.m. CDT)

"High Rollers," hosted by Alex Trebek, is a new TV version of the game of dice, in which contestants roll for cash and prizes, and try to win a chance to roll for the numbers on the Big Board.

The object of the game is to eliminate all the numbers – one through nine – on the merchandise board by using any combination of numbers that equal the roll of the dice. The contestant wins prizes by making matches of merchandise revealed by the eliminated numbers. The winner of two out of three games is then given a chance to roll against the large numbers for the car and $10,000.

To start the game, two contestants are given a toss-up question. The first to answer correctly gains control of the dice. Should that person roll a seven, for example, he may eliminate any combination of numbers that add up to seven -- five and two, three and four, six and one -- or the number seven itself. The player in control of the dice has the option to roll or pass them to his opponent. If there are no longer any numbers left on the board that will equal the roll of the dice, the contestant in control of the dice loses.

PEPPARD, 'BANACEK' STAR, IS FORMER COLLEGE ATHLETE

George Peppard, who stars as Thomas Banacek in 'Banacek', the Tuesday Mystery Movie on NBC, originally planned to become a civil engineer. That was his major at Purdue University before he became sidetracked by the theater.

It was while he was at Purdue that he began performing at the Purdue Playshop and later transferred to Carnegie Institute of Technology and was graduated with a fine arts degree.

At Carnegie Tech, Peppard also worked part-time as a disc jockey and station engineer for a radio station, taught fencing, appeared in Shakespearean productions and Greek drama and played in two productions at the Pittsburgh Playhouse.

He entered the Actors Studio and the Lee Strasberg acting laboratory but paying jobs were nonexistent.

After a long and hungry period in New York, Peppard landed his first role in the film "The Strange One." This work lasted three months and, having broken the ice, he began to get better and better roles on television in New York.

Peppard turned to motion pictures again for "Pork Chop Hill". His performance in the latter brought acclaim -- and new movie assignments.

He went on to starring roles in "Breakfast at Tiffany's", "How The West Was Won," "The Victors" opposite Melina Mercouri, "Operation Crossbow" with Sophia Loren and "The Carpetbaggers," a box office hit.

Peppard was born in Detroit, Mich. His father was a building contractor. His mother, who headed the voice department at the Detroit Conservatory of Music, was a protege of the late Ernestine Schumann - Heink and sang as a contralto star in light opera companies under her professiona name, Vernelle Rohrer. At the time of her death, in 1964, she was a member of the music faculty of UCLA.

Peppard competed on the football and track teams at Dearborn High School (Mich.) and spent 18 months in the Marine Corps before enrolling at Purdue.

Election law reform will be on ballot

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Petitions calling for a strong campaign spending law contain enough signatures to place the issue on the ballots in the November general election, Missouri Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick said today.

He said the petitions submitted in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 7th, 8th and 9th congressional districts contained 87,641 signatures of registered voters, 22,742 more than the 64,899 required in those seven districts.

"It is obvious petition circulators made a concerted effort to obtain the signatures of registered voters," Kirkpatrick said. "For the drive to have succeeded in such a short time is clear proof Missourians are concerned about our election laws."

The proposed law will require reporting of financial statements three times for each election, primary and general, and require that all contributions of $25 or more be made public. All contributions must be recorded, and any candidate who spends $500 or more on an election campaign must file reports with the secretary of state and the proposed election commission.

"The speed with which the signatures were gathered also suggests a few signers took time to read the 9,566-word proposal," Kirkpatrick said. "I am concerned that Missourians understand the proposal before they vote on it and know what it does, both good and bad."

Kirkpatrick said the proposal closes loopholes in existing laws which ignore contributions made more than 90 days before the election.

However, Kirkpatrick, the state's No. 1 election official, called attention to what he called a serious objection.

"It will discourage community and business leaders from serving in public office at the local level," he said.

He said requiring every candidate for every office to completely disclose sources of their income is "unnecessary and unwarranted."

He said the proposal would "practically" eliminate businessmen, professional men, community leaders and their spouses from serving on school boards, city councils and special district boards, including road, nursing home, hospital, and other boards of that type.

"Instead of keeping track of every customer who spends more than $100 with him, the farmer, the grocery store owner, the filling station operator and others simply won't consent to serve in these unpaid public service jobs," Kirkpatrick said.

Curtis calls for limiting federal spending, power

NEW MADRID — Tom B. Curtis, Republican U. S. Senate candidate, Thursday night listed inflation, irresponsible federal spending, balancing the budget, election and campaign financing reforms and a return to strong state and local governments as the basic issues in his campaign during an address at the New Madrid County Republican Club's fourth annual Lincoln Day dinner at New Madrid County R-1 Vocational - Technical School.

"When I go to the U. S. Senate, I want to underscore that there is going to be a strong, loud voice speaking up for the state government, the Clayton candidate stated. "There is going to be an end, if I can bring it to bear, on the bypassing and undermining of state and local government.

"Is this not one of the major issues that face us? That the federal government has continued to grab and move into more and more areas ... this is what brings about the Watergate syndrome.

"The Jeffersonian Democrat does understand and believes, as we believe, that the best government is that closest to the people, local and state. But we have to be responsive to the local and state government and to the needs of the people," he continued.

Curtis said the Republicans could be proud of the role they have played in bringing better

government, not just to this state but by setting an example to the entire United States.

He cited Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond, Lt. Gov. William Phelps, Attorney General John Danforth and State Auditor John Ashcroft for turning government around in Missouri.

Curtis charged that incumbent Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton is advocating fighting inflation and at the same time is proposing "back door spending," he said Eagleton is issuing "dope sheets" to the farmers, old people and labor groups about programs he will make -- all costing money -- trying to get them hooked on federal government.

In conclustion, Curtis said, "Is it possible for someone campaigning against Santa Claus to be elected? I don't know, but we are going to find out because that's the issue here in Missouri. I am not pulling my punches.

"I want the people to make an honest judgment in this state between a spender and a fiscal conservative.

"If the Missouri people respond as I think they are going to and return me to Washington, I am going to pick up the reins of leadership I dropped when I left the Congress and believe me, we are going to balance this budget and we are going to get rid of inflation.

"And, incidentally, as we do that, we can move forward to what is equally important, reducing federal taxes and returning power to state and local governments.

"If we have a voice in Missouri, this will be heard throughout the nation and we will be back on the track that made this the greatest nation in the world," Curtis added.

Mrs. Janet Ashcroft, speaking in behalf of her husband, State Autitor John Ashcroft, who is seeking election to a four- year term, said her husband believes the state auditor has to do much more than look behind the financial forms submitted by state agencies but must also see how wisely and efficiently the money is being spent and if it is being spent according to statutes.

Mrs. Ashcroft noted that her husband had saved, or

Ambulance service contract is signed

BENTON — The Scott County Court Thursday entered into a contract with the Roush Ambulance Co. of Cape Girardeau to provide ambulance protection to the northern part of the county.

The service will go into effect Sept. 1 and will run through Jan. 1, 1975, by which time the County Court hopes to have its own ambulances available.

Calls for ambulance service will be made through the Scott County sheriff's office in Benton.

The Roush firm will serve the cities of Commerce, Perkins, Chaffee, Illmo, Scott City, Benton and rural areas in the northern part of the county.

The court decided to begin closing the county sanitary landfill at 4 p.m. daily, beginning Sept. 1, instead of 5 p.m., the present closing time.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the earlier closing will allow the landfill operator time to cover the landfill with a layer of dirt.

Beginning the same day, the landfill will be closed on Sundays. Lankford said no operator is on duty Sundays and that state regulations require the solid waste to be covered every day the landfill is open.

Lankford said he hoped the new rules would enable the county to conform to state solid waste disposal regulations.

The court has been criticized recently by the state officials for not following regulations in the operation of the landfill.

Orr bound over in assault case

BLOOMFIELD — George Orr, 17, of Morehouse, who is charged with the July 14 beating of Joan Hann, 20, a rural Sikeston woman, was bound over to Circuit Court Thursday, following a preliminary hearing before Judge Koss W. Blomeyer. Orr will appear in Circuit Court Sept. 4, where he will face a charge of felonious assault with intent to ravish.

Miss Hann testified the beating took place at approximately 3 a.m. on the night of July 14, after she had returned to her parents' home, following a party at the Joe Sutton home in Morehouse.

She said she was driven home from the party by her boy friend, Mike Brashears, in her own automobile. She said she had been drinking and Brashears felt she shouldn't drive. She said after Brashears delivered her to her parents home, he was picked up by Orr and another 16- year- old Morehouse youth, who returned him to the Sutton home to get his own car. She said she remained in her car and fell asleep and the next thing she remembered she was being picked up by Orr, who then threw her into the back of a pick- up truck and proceeded to drive away. She said she was afraid to jump from the moving vehicle. Orr and his companion then took Miss Hann to a bridge approximately one- half mile from the Hann home and stopped the truck. Miss Hann said she then fled the scene on foot and was approximately one- third of the way across the field toward her home when she tripped and fell. She said Orr caught up to her at this time and sat on her to prevent her from escaping. She said Orr then struck her twice with his fist, knocking her unconscious. She said when she regained consciousness, both boys had fled. She then proceeded to walk to her parents home. When asked if she had been raped, she replied that she had not, but believed an attempt had been made as her pants zipper was torn and a button missing.

Bernard Hann testified that he had become alarmed when his daughter had not returned at this unusually late hour and had gotten out of bed and notified the highway patrol. He said Mrs. Hann told him she heard a woman scream. He said he then went to the door and turned on the outside lights and discovered his daughter's car in the driveway with the door open. Thinking it might have been his daughter's scream heard by Mrs. Hann, he began to look around the farm and spotted the pickup truck. He said he began to pursue the truck, thinking his daughter was inside. He said, however, he lost the truck

CHARLESTON — In special session Thursday night the city council adopted the final draft of a solid waste ordinance and voted to appropriate $2,500 toward clearing debris from the urban renewal area.

Following adoption of a solid waste ordinance, the council also adopted an ordinance entering the city into contract with Bill Groves Jr. of Charleston for solid waste collection service.

The contract with Groves will be signed today. Groves was in St. Louis Thursday to pick up his equipment, according to Mayor P. J. Ponder, who indicated Groves would begin the pick-up service immediately.

The service will cost $3.15 per month for weekly pickup for an unlimited number of containers placed at the rear of residences. Billing and collecting for the service will be handled by the city.

George Simmons, William Hart, Bill Purnell and Layton Pickard, members of the Urban Renewal Board, and Tanna Parish, Urban Renewal Director, attended Thursday's meeting to request that the city clean up rubble and debris accumulating in the urban renewal area.

Under the program, the city agreed at the onset of the four year plan to clean up property following the demolition of old houses. At present the city is running behind in clean- up efforts.

City Manager Willis Downs explained that the work was running behind due mainly to city crews and equipment being kept busy with water, sewer and street problems, which must receive top priority.

A bid of $3,665 plus trade- in from Galemore Motor Co. of Charleston was accepted for the purchase of a 1974 model car for the city manager.

Burglars hit prosecutor's office

Burglars broke into the offices of Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore, 314 W. North St., sometime between 7 p.m. Thursday and 8:30 a.m. today and carried off items valued at over $1,200 and an undisclosed amount of cash.

The burglars took two dictating machines valued at $500, a calculator valued at $500, two watches of unknown value, two briefcases worth $85, a BB pistol worth $25, a 9-millimeter automatic pistol worth $165 and a .38-caliber revolver of unknown value, as well as the undisclosed amount of cash.

The burglars apparently entered the building by climbing up the back steps to the second floor, crawling across the roof and breaking a window into the kitchen.

Marshall St. widening aired

CHARLESTON — The Missouri State Highway Department's proposal for the widening of Marshall St., which runs east and west through the city, was discussed Thursday night at a public hearing in the Circuit Court room.

About 65 residents and businessmen along the street attended the meeting, called by the highway department for the purpose of explaining the location and preliminary design details and to obtain views of interested persons who will be effected by the comtemplated highway improvements.

The first person to endorse the proposal during the question and comments period was George Simmons, a local equipment company owner on the street. Simmons also spoke on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, which he said unanimously approved the proposal.

Letters of endorsement from the chamber, city council, and urban renewal board were read by Lionel T. Murray, district engineer for the highway department 10th District with headquarters in Sikeston, who presided at the hearing.

James Haw a Charleston attorney, who said he owned no property in the proposed area, spoke out against the project, stating that he was "utterly and completely opposed to the plan." According to Haw the highway department is supposed to be short of funds and work should be done on county and supplementary roads where it is more needed.

Haw also said he felt that the amount of traffic on Marshall St. does not require a four lane highway, one that would be harder to cross, either walking or driving. He also cited opposition to tearing down old homes, those of elderly residents, and the uprooting of large trees which could not be replaced or restored in a lifetime.

A murmur of "Amen" and a few claps of applause were heard following Haw's comments.

Others voicing opposition were James Ashley, Mr. and Mrs. Rule Swank, and Sandra Stanley. Another comment of opposition voiced was "regardless if state or urban renewal funds are used for construction, it's still our money which will be spent."

Mayor P. J. Ponder, owner of Ponder's Chevrolet Buick Co. on Marshall St. endorsed the project, as did William Hart, a member of the urban renewal board.

The proposed Marshall St., or Route 62 improvements, called for a high type pavement 48 feet wide with shoulders 10 feet in width to be constructed initially in the active urban renewal area from First Street west to Finney Street. The present plan for widening was designed to utilize land adjacent to Route 62 acquired by the Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority of Charleston.

Later proposed construction would run from First Street to the I-57 interchange at the east city limits.

Funds for acquisition of land in conjunction with urban renewal projects east of First Street are not available at this time.

Murray told the group the proposed improvements are on the highway department's five- year program for right-of- way acquisition and construction. He said that after receiving location and design approval, plans will be finalized and the highway department will proceed with right- of- way acquisition. Construction will take place when funds are available.

Murray also said it is anticipated at this time that the cost of roadway construction will be financed with state funds and that the costs for adjusting utilities will be financed by utility owners and the state in accordance with highway commission policy.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

PASTORS ARE HUMAN, TOO

There is an old saying that "the grass is always greener in the other fellow's yard" ... meaning, of course, that that is the way it appears to be. Only when you get up close do you see the weeds, crab-grass, mole holes and other pesky nuisances that are painfully obvious in your own lawn.

Such is the view all too often taken of the "Man in the pulpit" — the pastor, the preacher, the priest or the rabbi. Surely he lives a life of tranquil bliss and ease! As a man close to God, he doesn't have all the problems of ordinary mortals — like me, for instance.

Recently, one of the major denominations in the United States took note of the fact that nearly 1,000 of their pastors had left the ministry during the last year ... and they set about to find out "why?" And, if misery loves company, the findings will be comforting.

Three out of four of the dropouts gave their reason for leaving the ministry as the "serious stress" they had experienced. Further, they reported, such stress was accompanied by such feelings as "anguish, worry, bewilderment, depression, fear, failure, defeat, anger, disgust, alienation, and betrayal." They also reported that they often felt drained physically, emotionally and spiritually.

One pastor commented that very few people — including members of his own church — realize how much time and effort a pastor spends in his work. Many think that all the minister has to do is prepare two or three sermons a week, spend an afternoon visiting the ill and aged, and the rest of the week he can go fishing.

Well, it's kind of good to know that pastors are human, too. In the crazy, mixed-up world we live in today, no one, it would seem, is immune to the stresses and strains of modern - day living. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker — and the preacher, too — have problems peculiar to their professions that the folk "outside" seldom know or appreciate. And doesn't that apply to just about all of us?

Since I returned from Canada, eye-balling, I was greeted with the fact that Louie Largent had passed away and Ed Fuchs was in such a shape that he couldn't get well. Now these were two good close friends of mine. Eddie served as the financial chairman of the WPA while I was the administrator and he was a real efficient officer. Of course, I bought cars from him ever since 1935 and I guess would continue to buy if he had been alive. I realize that his passing maybe was for the best, but it grieves me. It also grieves me about Louie Largent. I have known Louie ever since he moved to town and he was a really good pharmacist and I was glad to see him become the owner of White's Drug Store, because that was, I guess, maybe the first and only place that he owned that really made money and of course, he continued the same policies that Edgar White, C. C. and Glen Fish had, that is if he didn't have it he got it. I am going to miss them both, not as much as their family will, but for a fellow that wasn't kin I am going to miss them.

"A provision in the new federal minimum wage law," reports the Arizona Farm Bureau Federation, "that became effective May 1, (1974) is designed to encourage employment of students. Farmers and ranchers may employ full-time students at wage rates less than the prevailing minimum level. Under this provision full-time high school or college students can be employed at not less than 85 per cent of the required minimum wage. Such employment is limited to 20 hours per week during school sessions and 40 hours per week in non- school periods."

Costs of a fully implemented housing allowance program could reach $10 billion a year, according to the General Accounting Office.

Under the $169 million Experimental Housing Allowance Program (which most taxpayers never heard of), 18,000 low- income families in certain cities will be given an average $1,000 a year to help them rent quality housing of their choice.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development would like to see "one of the largest social experiments ever undertaken in the United States" extended to low- income homeowners.

However, the GAO advised Congress to wait for results of the experiment before expanding the program to a potential 11.8 million households. The GAO said the tests may not show the full impact on rents generally, for one thing.

WE DON'T HAVE DEPARTURES

When the man in the box says: "Now this important message..." What do you do? According to an executive of one of the leading advertising agencies, more and more people get up and go. Where? Almost anywhere that is within 60 seconds of his chair.

With the advertising in your hometown newspaper, you don't need to have someone tell the reader that this is important. The mere fact that it is printed on the pages of the newspaper tells the reader it is important! There will be no departure when the potential customer comes to your message. It will be read; it will be retained and you will have action.

A superficial look at last year's statistical record might suggest that, while the man on the street has been a victim of inflation, American business corporations have done very well out of it. Corporate aftertax profits, it would appear, increased by 27 per cent between 1972 and 1973—well ahead of the increase in the cost of living. The total after-tax income of persons increased by only 11 per cent, which was very little increase to speak of, when account is taken of the rise in the price level.

A little deeper digging in the statistics shows how misleading this comparison is. Instead of being the beneficiaries of inflation, corporations have been among its prime victims.

The difficulty has its source in customary accounting procedures which assign values to consumption of current and capital assets based on their price at the time they were originally acquired. Realistic accounting would require that the cost of the assets used up be evaluated on the basis of the higher price to be paid currently for equivalent replacements.

This makes a large difference in calculating corporate profits. About the only time the average citizen is likely to run into a similar problem is when he sells a house he has held for some time and then has to buy another house to live in. Anyone who has been through this in recent years knows that the large nominal profit he seemed to make on the first house vanished into the purchase price of the second house,leaving him no better off than before. A large element of corporate profits as currently reported is of a similarly vanishing nature.

In 1973, failure of accounting procedures to take full account of the rising cost of replacing inventories overstated total corporate profits by 17 billion dollars. And failure to take account, in the calculation of depreciation, of the rising cost of capital assets resulted in a further overstatement of profits amounting to about 8 billion dollars. We thus have 25 billion dollars included in the statistical corporate profit total that is as unreal as the phantom profits earned by an average citizen on the sale of this house.

Last year was a period of exceptionally rapid inflation in the price of items entering intc business costs. (Prices of industrial materials rose by 55 per cent during the year). As a result, corporate profits were overstated to a much larger degree in 1973 than in prior years. When allowance is made for this, corporate after-tax profits rose by only about 10 per cent between 1972 and 1973—putting the corporations approximately in line with the 11 per cent increase in the after-tax income of individuals.

The retained profits of corporations are (or should be) a major source of the capital essential to growth of our economy. Last year the retained profits of corporations, as usually recorded, were $43 billion, which looks like a very healthy figure indeed. But if you remove the $25 billion of inflationary fluff, retained profits came to only $18 billion. This is all that is available for expansion in any genuine sense. The smallness of the figure should be a matter of concern not only for corporate shareholders, but to anyone who has a stake in the growth of our economy.

For corporations, inflation has made appearances better, but reality worse.

ADVERTISING IS ESSENTIAI

Writes a Midwest publisher: "If there's anything Americans can excel at, it's boarding bandwagons. Right now a popular bandwagon is labeled 'anti- advertising' and all sorts of folks are leaping aboard. As consumers they may lose in the long run"

Chosen for particular attention by the anti-advertisers have been the advertising programs of investor-owned electric companies. The theory is that since there is already a soaring demand for energy, why should electric companies advertise their product? The answer is that electric companies advertise primarily to achieve more efficient use of plant and equipment--to smooth out the peaks and valleys of power consumption. High investments in generating equipment are no different than high investments in such things as airlines.

As one power company explained to its customers, "If we stopped advertising today and used that part of our budget to lower your bill, there would hardly be enough for each customer to notice the difference. In fact, the reverse would soon be true. Our 'load factor' (the amount we use of our existing equipment) would probably fall to the point where we'd have to charge more for a kilowatt...to cover our expenses. Electricity today costs no more than it did in the early 1950's and advertising can be given part of the credit for keeping the cost low."

HANDLE YOURSELF WITH CARE

Of all accidental injuries each year in the United States, 17 per cent happen to persons 65 and older. These accidents can often be fatal.

Older persons are involved in 26 per cent of all accidental deaths.

To help older persons do the extra planning necessary for safety, the Administration on Aging has developed "Handle Yourself With Care." This 22- page booklet is available for 40 cents from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Among other things, the booklet points out that falls are the leading cause of accidental deaths and injuries among older persons. Here are some suggested safeguards:

Keep traffic lanes through all rooms free from hazards to stumble over.

Always light the way ahead when entering a room or going up and down the stairs.

Be careful getting into and out of a tub or shower stall. Use a non-skid rubber mat or safety strips in the tub and a non-slip mat beside it. Have a grab bar installed as a help in getting in and out.

Get rid of scatter rugs or anchor them firmly with a non-slip mat underneath. Never have small rugs at top or bottom of stairs.

Wipe up spilled liquids immediately.

More than 25 per cent of all deaths from fires and explosions involve older persons. The booklet gives the following fire prevention suggestions:

Don't smoke in bed or anywhere when you are sleepy.

Don't use matches to hunt in closets.

Be sure all burners and appliances are turned off after use.

Don't wear long, full sleeves when cooking.

Following a few simple rules such as the foregoing may save a senior citizen not only a great amount of suffering but also his or her life.

IT WAS A 'HER'

This is a day of ease and informality. Saturday a United States Senator, a personal friend of ours, visited the Democrat office. But we were wearing a short sleeve shirt, no tie and no coat. And the city editor was out of town, while the managing editor was in Canada. Also present to meet U. S. Senator Eagleton was the assistant city editor, Lark Dobyns. She wore "dress pants" and admitted the editor (not us) had given her instructions to wear a dress. But she needed to be comfortable without have to watch how she was seated, also guard against gusts of wind. Her face was pretty, however, but when we looked at her before she went to church a week ago Sunday, everything we saw was a "her."

'DETENTE' DOES NOT END SPYING, SUBVERSION

"Two steps forward, one step back." That is the communist prescription for taking over a country -- or the world. After the one step back, of course, comes another step forward, and another, and another, as long as a free people permit.

Director Kelley points out that there are an increasing number of visitors from communist countries, especially from the two largest Red powers, Soviet Russia and Red China. Few citizens of these two powers come to the U.S. without a secondary mission of intelligence or counterintelligence. The same is true of visitors from Red satellite governments.

These Red visitors are causing more counterespionage activity for the FBI. Too many in Congress and in the national news media have tried to reduce our alertness against Red subversion and to deny there is any danger from communist spies or agents. Kelley hews to the historical record of both the FBI and the communists, despite pressure from "liberals."

At the same time, the war against criminals accelerates. Terrorist kidnappings and extoritions, often inspired by leftwing radical theories, require a great deal of FBI effort. Also, 2,600 suspects from orginized crime are currently being prosecuted and FBI investigations led to 15,240 criminal convictions last year. It looks like the FBI is in good, strong hands, which adds to hope for the future of our Republic. HLH

Inside Labor

by Victor Riesel

Urbane Revolutionists: British Labor Socialists have plans for 'Worker- Control' of all industries

LONDON — Karl Marx, who started it all, is in the "deep six" over in the shabby Highgate cemetery. V. I. Lenin, who gave it quite a push, is over in the Fleet Street- Strand area, reincarnated on the stage of the Aldwych Theatre. And the Socialists, who can turn out lords and knights at will, are in power at 10 Downing Street, trying to catch up with the old boys.

These urbane Socialists, led by Prime Minister Harold Wilson, are such decent cultured social revolutionaries, it's difficult to imagine their attempting to remake our capitalist society. Especially in lovely London town.

But they are!

They are preparing to nationalize most anything of size in industry -- the United Kingdom's 25 major corporations, as well as the machine tool industry, banks, construction firms, insurance, North Sea oil, mortgage and loan associations, pharmaceuticals, engine making, docks, aerospace, and virtually all that is vital in the private sector. It appears this would include such American installations as Ford, General Motors, the Chrysler combine, et al.

That's not all. There are Socialist (Labor Party) proposals for something called "planning" partnerships with 100 major corporations.

In effect, the Laborites propose a new law which would give the government the right to inspect and override the management and ownership of these companies. There would be a special National Enterprise Board which would have a staff to "help" private corporations plan their investments, their budget, their production, their sales, their hiring, their very existence.

Of course, all this depends on the outcome of the election. Virtually everybody here expects the Socialist Prime Minister Wilson to go to the nation in October. But he may wait until March in the hope that the North Sea oil wells and newly discovered huge coal deposits will bring down the price of energy and in turn all other costs.

But you haven't heard anything yet. There are plans to concentrate control and put a sort of Big Brother monitor over the press, radio, television, wipe out commercial broadcasting, and make certain the good people of Britain hear only the true social verities. As decided by the Socialists, of course.

In the highest Socialist-labor circles, they tell you that really isn't so. Just so much talk, and white, green and other colored official party "Papers" are just confetti to keep the militant Socialists happy. Don't take it seriously, they say.

Well, there is the tough Socialist, Secretary for Employment Michael Foot. When he went to see the Queen for the first time, he wore his favorite shapeless truck driver's jacket, a rumpled suit and dirty suede shoes. Foot is a remarkable scholar. A real Socialist. He believes in giving the workers power over industry. He has a formula all worked out.

So has Secretary of State for Industry Anthony Wedgwood Benn. He wants almost full nationalization. And he has had considerable backing of the Wilson cabinet.

So with Mike Foot looking forward to national "worker control," and Tony Benn looking forward to a nationalized Britain over which he would be Prime Minister someday, and with Labor Party general secretary Ron Hayward saying that the next British Labor Party government will extend state control over all key businesses in the country, it looks like Britain, our ally, is heading for the type of economy I have just seen behind the Iron Curtain.

For example, the powerful Trades Union Congress (TUC) (the AFL-CIO of Britain) wants 50 per cent of the seats on the boards of directors of the already nationalized industries -- and 50 per cent of the board seats in private businesses as well.

Here is how it is put officially by the TUC labor leaders:

"As for the private sector, the TUC wishes each large company to have a supervisory board and a management board. The supervisory board would be the supreme body. It would be able to overrule the board of management, the annual meeting of shareholders (and) or the owners of all major decisions, such as technological changes, mergers, takeovers or investment plans.

"The TUC plan is for half the members of supervisory boards to be workers' representatives appointed through their unions and sharing fully in the making of the principal decisions which affect the company's workers.

"The proposal now is that through a new Companies Act, this obligation should in the first place be put on companies and conglomerate companies with more than 2,000 on their payroll but that the Minister (for Industry) should be given power in the legislation to make it apply at a later stage to companies with more than 200 workers."

Under this plan the "worker- directors" would not -- repeat, not -- need to be employes of the firm. They could be full- time officers of unions representing the employes.

And this "worker- director" could continue to lead his union.

It would be as though George Meany would be elected by the AFL-CIO to sit on the board of control at General Motors or Chase Manhattan. David Rockefeller might find that an interesting board room.

Since there is a Labor-Party Trades Union Congress Liaison Committee, it can be taken for granted that the union chiefs' views actually dominate. There is a slight difference. Erudite TUC general secretary Len Murray, who helped design the worker-control program, tells me he would want to see it develop through collective bargaining. Mike Foot and Tony Benn want it won through parliamentary action.

They really are Socialists, these fellows. Brilliant, too. When I talked with Mike Foot, a cabinet member, about this, it seemed that he was discussing an outing to Brighton's beach.

But the toughest Socialist in Britain, Jack Jones, is the closest you come to a labor boss. He's the rough- hewn leader of the huge Transport union. He calls the shots. He's a former Communist who never strayed from the left. So the Socialists do have a power base. In turn, there is price control, dividend restraint, but no wage control.

That's the picture. That's why the next election here is so vital. Our ally seems to be looking East, not West.

JACK ANDERSON AND LES WHITTEN SAYS: Hill was Ready for Rocky Probe

WASHINGTON — Even before President Ford revealed his choice of Nelson Rockefeller as Vice President, the House and Senate had put the constitutional machinery in motion for his confirmation.

A half- hour before the dramatic oval office announcement, Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., whose Senate Rules Committee skillfully handled Ford's own vice presidential hearings, was called by White House aide Tom Korciogos and told Rockefeller was the one.

Within minutes, Cannon's aides were drafting a letter to the Library of Congress requesting information on Rockefeller. The Rules chairman also began drawing up a list of how many General Accounting Office and Senate sleuths he would have to borrow for the investigation.

Even with this help and massive FBI assistance, Cannon expects it will still take weeks to look into Rockefeller's complicated financial interests in the United States and abroad. Ironically, Cannon had just wound up work on the unneeded procedures for an impeachment trial and now he must devote almost full time to the Rockefeller nomination.

"It's going to be a lot more pleasant than a trial would have been," Cannon's administrative assistant, Chet Sobsey, told us. "But it's not going to be much less work."

In the House, Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., laid aside his own clean- up work on impeachment to set up a meeting last week between his staff and top Library of Congress aides. With the selection still unknown, the two sides worked out a channel for getting a steady flow of data on Rockefeller to the committee.

Only 10 minutes after the announcement, the Library of Congress called Rodino's staff to advise them the flow of Rockefeller data would begin that afternoon. It will come in on a daily basis until the investigation is complete.

Rodino's men also met before the announcement with GAO officials to arrange to borrow accountants. The GAO is an arm of Congress, while the FBI, which contacted more than 1,000 people on Ford and compiled finished notes totaling 1,400 pages, works under the Executive branch.

OPTIONAL SAFETY: A House- passed prohibition on the new seat belts that must be hitched before the car will start could cost 85,000 lives and 5.4 million injuries in the next decade, according to a House Commerce staff memo.

The ban, sponsored by Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.H., was passed by a panicky House because of voter complaints about the "interlock" seat belts in all 1974 models. Wyman's legislation also would make air bags scheduled for 1977 models optional instead of mandatory.

In bitter opposition to the Wyman measures, the House Commerce staff memo predicts an average of 8,500 lives now being saved each year by the "interlocks" would be lost. Wyman's air bag bill could kill 13,000 a year.

The air bag measure would also knock out the proposed 30 per cent decrease in some insurance policies, according to the staff document, and it would drive up the cost of air bags for those who do choose the safety device.

In defending "interlocks," the staff report says "lap and shoulder belt usage has increased to 59 per cent in 1974 cars" as a result of the new system, compared with "six per cent in 1973 models. The number of motorists wearing no belts has decreased from 70 per cent in 1973 to 27 per cent in 1974."

The current auto safety crisis, according to other internal House memos, grew out of a meeting between Henry Ford II and former President Richard Nixon some four years ago. At that time, Ford reportedly told Nixon of his vehement opposition to air bags.

"Subsequently," says one memo, "there was a meeting with White House 'super heavy weights' (including John Ehrlichman" to discuss the air bags with then Transportation Secretary John Volpe.

As Volpe gloomily left the meeting, says the memo, he turned to a key aide and remarked, "We are in trouble on the air bag."

"This was just before the 1972 campaign," the document goes on and the White House hoped that Henry Ford "might play a role on behalf of Nixon's re- election."

Sure enough, following the Ehrlichman meeting, orders were handed down by the White House to institute the "interlock," according to the memos. Their aim: to delay or kill the air bag concept just as Henry Ford had proposed. Ford, as it turns out, contributed $49,766 to the Nixon campaign.

Now, unless Senate conferees balk at the House measure, both the "interlock" and the air bags will be junked by the automakers, and the only restraint will be the old buzzless buckles of 1972.

PLUTOCRATIC PARKS: The trinkets tourists buy in National Parks financed a Washington party complete with strolling violinists and 600 guests, including Lady Bird Johnson, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Zsa Zsa Gabor.

Decorative shrubbery was brought from a National Parks greenhouse and the guests dined on steamship beef and steelhead salmon. The spring extravaganza took six weeks of planning and $9,000. This is time and money that conservationists say the National Parks Service should have spent on improving their services to vacationers.

Couple arraigned on murder charge

ALTON — Mark Curtis Combs, also known as Pogey Schmidt, and Valerie Sue Schmidt were Formally arraigned Thursday morning on charges of first degree murder in Oregon County Magistrate Court before Judge H. L. Davidson.

The young couple has been charged with the murder of Steele businessman Riley Hastings whose body was recovered June 27 by the Ripley County sheriff's department and officers of the highway patrol in a heavily wooded area near Gatewood.

Judge Davidson denied bond for both suspects. A preliminary hearing has been scheduled for Sept. 5. The court appointed an attorney for both.

According to Oregon County Sheriff Joe Hawkins, Combs has confessed to the murder of Hastings. Hawkins said Combs took him to the site where he allegedly shot Hastings twice with a 16-gauge shotgun. The shotgun, Hawkins said, was recovered as were Hastings billfold and some personal papers.

The site where Combs reportedly shot Hastings, the sheriff said, is "well into Oregon County, being about a mile west of where the body was found."

Hawkins noted the importance of the site because of earlier questions about the venue of the case. Hastings' body originally was thought to be in Ripley County. A survey later showed the body was approximately 200 feet inside Oregon County. Combs' confession, the sheriff said, puts the case in his jurisdiction.

In his statement, Combs was quoted as saying Hastings had approached him with a cash sexual proposition for his wife. Combs, according to his statement, refused and alleged that Hastings put a shotgun to his head and threatened to kill him.

Combs told officers he took the gun away from Hastings and shot him as he ran away. Officers said Combs admitted shooting Hastings a second time as Hastings came at him with a broken bottle. An autopsy revealed two close- range shotgun wounds in Hastings' back.

In his statement, Combs said he hid the body in a cistern for one night before abandoning it at the site where it was found.

Sources report Combs said he told the Schmidt woman Hastings' truck, which the two drove to Montana, and the money he is reported to have taken from the dead man, were gifts from his brother. Combs insists, the reports continue, the Schmidt woman knew nothing about the murder.

Administration considers 10-cent gas tax boost

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Ford administration is considering a 10- cent- per-gallon boost in the federal excise tax on gasoline as a possible anti- inflation move, officials say.

"This is one of those proposals under consideration . . . along with many, many others," White House Press Secretary Jerald F. TerHorst told reporters on Thursday in confirming published reports about a possible tax boost.

The excise tax is currently 4 cents a gallon, and nationwide surveys show that the average cost of gasoline now is 55.8 cents a gallon.

TerHorst and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said President Ford has no immediate plans to ask Congress for a tax increase now. And Capitol Hill sources also said it was unlikely that Congress would enact such a tax boost in an election year.

TerHorst was asked to comment on a Los Angeles Times Report that Ford may seek the gasoline- tax increase to fight inflation and conserve energy.

"The President and his economic advisers are reviewing a whole range of possible ideas and recommendations," he said. "This is one of those proposals under study."

Simon said a gasoline tax boost has been discussed periodically since February 1973, "but it's only been one of many issues that's been discussed in the area of tax policy."

Sources reported that a detailed study of such a boost is still in the preliminary stage at the sub-Cabinet level.

The Times quoted unidentified administration officials as saying that higher gasoline taxes could reduce consumption by as much as 5 per cent, thus pressuring oil-exporting nations to lower their crude oil prices.

Such a boost would raise "Old" crude oil refers to that portion of currently produced oil that is equal to or below 1972 production levels.

The Post said advocates of the decontrol conceded it would have a short-term inflationary effect but that it would reduce demand in the long run. Reducing demand for goods is one method of fighting inflation.

$8 billion in federal revenues. The Times said some administration economic advisers suggest using the money to reduce income taxes for low and middle-income families, while others would prefer it be used to balance the budget.

Meanwhile, the Washington Post reported today that the administration also is studying whether to decontrol prices on about 75 per cent of domestically produced crude oil.

A political debate is like a tornado: Lots of wind going round and round.

Miss Reeves, Simmons wed

EAST PRAIRIE — Wedding vows uniting Miss Mari Melissa Reeves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reeves, and Robert Wayne Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Overton R. Harris of Siloam Springs, Ark., were exchanged Aug. 2 in Nelson Memorial United Methodist Church.

The candlelight setting for the double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. John Hayes, the church pastor, was provided by lavendar tapers in a 15- branch arch candelabraum, graced on either side with matching candelabra on gold pedestals. Boxwood greenery and baby's breath appointed the candelabra and the altar railing.

Brass candlesticks with baby's breath and ivy intertwined were placed in each of the stained glass windows of the church and fresh bouquets completed the summer setting.

Wedding music was provided by John Bowen of Dexter, vocalist; Miss Laura French of Portageville, pianist; and Mrs. Weldon Bird of East Prairie, organist.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an elegant gown of ivory sheer organza and Cluny lace. The bodice, featuring a high neckline and sheer bishop sleeves, was accented down the center front by tiny self- fabric buttons. Cluny lace adorned the bodice, neckline, empire waist and sleeves and the A-line silhouette skirt fell softly to the hemline.

Her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of lavendar daisies, baby's breath and ivy centered with a corsage of white daisies.

Mrs. Danny Scruggs of East Prairie served her sister as matron of honor. Mrs. Steve Hodges of Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Marsha Munson of East Prairie were bridesmaids.

The matron of honor wore a gown of Victorian styling with a bodice of lavendar and blue organza and solid lavendar skirt. Her lavendar hat was accented with a matching pattern of organza, and she carried a nosegay of lavendar and white daisies and baby's breath. The bridesmaids gowns were also of Victorian styling featuring solid lavendar bodices and lavendar and blue organza skirts.

Candlelighters were Miss Mary Lynn Caldwell of Sikeston and Miss Deborah Davis of Hallsville. Their gowns were Victorian style and fashioned of solid lavendar organza. Flower girls were Shannon and Tonya Scruggs. Their dresses were styled like those worn by the other honor attendants.

The groom chose David Fisher of Tulsa, Okla., as his best man, Groomsmen were Kent Ziegfield of Cape Girardeau and John Howard of St. Louis. Ushers were Danny Scruggs of East Prairie and Lloyd Smith of Sikeston.

Mrs. Reeves chose for her daughter's wedding a formal gown of dusty rose fashioned with a high neckline and lace sleeves. Her corsage was of white carnations edged in rose. The groom's mother wore a floor- length gown of yellow and green organza with long sleeves, complemented with a corsage of yellow carnations.

The reception immediately following the ceremony was held in the church dining hall. The bride's table, covered with ecru lace, was centered with an arrangement of lavendar and blue daisies and a silver candelabra with lavender tapers.

The tiered wedding cake, placed on one end of the table, was topped with the wedding cake decoration used by her mother and father at their wedding. Silver punch service and other silver appointments completed the table setting.

The new Mrs. Simmons is a graduate of East Prairie High School and Southeast Missouri State University. She will teach music this fall in the Oran schools.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I hope it isn't too late to add my two-cents worth to the fray regarding the 15-year-old kid who resented taking showers with the guys in his gym class. I'm sure you received a rash of angry letters from people who thought you were evil-minded, immodest, a shameless hussy, or a hustler for nudist camps. But you were right, Ann -- as usual. Your suggestion that the boy get professional help for his "problem" was a good one and I hope he takes it.

I am a homosexual who suffered the same uneasiness about showering with my classmates. Normal boys think nothing of romping around in the buff unless, as you said, they are extremely skinny, or very fat, or have some physical deformity. The young man who wrote revealed signs of latent homosexuality. Many of my gay friends, as well as myself, went through the same thing. I know, because we talked about it.

Please print this letter for two reasons -- (a) to let your readers know that you were right. And (b) so that poor guy will realize he is not alone. -- Another One

Dear A.O.: Here's your letter and I appreciate the opportunity to re- open the subject. It's been a long time since I've been bombarded with such a blizzard of letters telling me I was "sick," "crazy," "out of my head," etc. A large number of girls wrote, which was interesting, since the same advice does NOT apply to them, although they assumed it did. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a young woman of 20, contemplating marriage to a guy I've gone with for two years. I feel we know each other very well.

My fiance is definitely a "mama's boy." He will not make a decision of any kind without consulting his mother. We've had many arguments about this and I don't know how to handle it.

I don't want him to be constantly torn between his mother and me. There's got to be a way to show him what he is doing to our love.

How can I get the idea across that a wife should come first? I don't want to damage our relationship or put his mother down. Please tell me what you would do if you were in my shoes. -- Second Choice

Dear Sec.: I'd step out of those shoes and look for a better fit. But then you aren't me. I suspect you are very much in love with the guy and will do anything rather than give him up -- in which case, here is what your life will be like. You will continue to play second fiddle to your mother-in-law and there will be many unhappy moments and bitter tears. She will be the Number One Woman in his life as long she lives and you will settle for the crumbs.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is very tight with money. I make my own clothes and sew for our three daughters. I can never pay cash for fabrics. I have to leave it in "lay-away."

The other night my husband had an important client in town and we took him and his wife to dinner. The check was $26. My husband left a $5 tip. I'm ashamed to say I slipped the $5 off the table. I needed $3.50 to get some material out of the fabric shop. The service was just fair. Was I wrong? -- ????

Dear!!!! You stole $5 from a waitress. It's as simple as that.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

When our children were very small and our economic level was somewhere between Poverty and Second Notice, we taught our children that meat would make them sick.

I know it was a rotten thing to do, but it was a temporary thing and eventually we planned to tell them Ralph Nader found out about the problem and corrected it.

However, a weasel- faced stoolie in my daughter's second grade cornered her one day and told her the facts of life about grilled steaks, roasts and bacon for breakfast and blew our whole story.

We never for a moment considered our children would have revenge until the first time we took them to a restaurant. Then it seemed all the hostility . . . the bitterness . . . the anger came out.

Our daughter (who at home ate like a parakeet with ulcers) said, "I'll have a shrimp cocktail, prime ribs medium rare, baked potato with chives, roquefort on my salad and I'll let you know about dessert."

Our son who couldn't even read at the time, held the menu upsidedown and said, "I'll have the liver pate, Cornish game hen, wild rice and a side order of crown mushrooms."

The baby, who was in a high chair slobbering on a sugar packet, opened his mouth to speak, but I put my hand over it explaining, "He's on Weight Watchers and hasn't made maintenance yet."

When we were alone my husband accosted the children. "Where in the world did you learn language like that!"

"Like what?" asked our daughter.

"Like prime ribs and shrimp and pate."

"I get around," she said her eyes narrowing. "Besides, we have a lot of catching up to do."

Today they have more than caught up. We rarely go out to dinner with them . . . only when we are assured we can arrange financing.

They have arrived at the stage where they no longer order from the left column, but the right. Our son said the other night, "I'll have the $12 Serves Two,' 'Please allow 20 minutes' and 'Add 75 cents when ordered out of season!' "

"And I'll have the 'Expertly Prepared By Our Chef At Your Table,' " said his brother.

As we gnawed on the bread sticks awaiting our dinner, we saw a young couple over in the corner each eating a steak. Nearby, their two young children were having a fight with a plate of french fries and blowing straws out of their casings.

"Would you look at those beautiful meatless children," I said miserably.

"It's only a matter of time before some weasel-faced stoolie blabs," said my husband.

Chaffee youths claim top honors

CHAFFEE — Chaffee boys were well represented in the baseball skills competition co- sponsored by the Chaffee Babe Ruth league and the R. T. French Mustard Company of Rochester, N. Y.

Three boys won top honors and three took runnerup positions.

Each of the winners will be presented trophies by French's Mustard which along with the Babe Ruth organization sponsors similar competitions in cities nationwide. The program is intended to promote the development of baseball skills in a spirit of friendly competition, matching boys of the same age.

Terry Glenzy was the program director.

CHAFFEE — Wade and Doug Sanders of Chaffee teamed to take first place in the doubles matches of the Southeast Missourian's Invitational Tennis Tournament over the weekend. The tourney was held at the Southeast Missouri State University campus.

Festus, Poplar Bluff, Caruthersville and Sikeston were represented in the tournament.

The Sanders defeated Weeks and Toole of Cape Girardeau 6-1, 0-6, 7-5, to win the trophy.

Wade Sanders took second in the 12 or under singles matches.

Bench says Brock can

"I honestly didn't think Maury Wills' record would be broken, but Lou's made a believer out of me," said the Cincinnati Reds All-Star catcher.

"It will be truly unbelievable if he does it," said Bench in tribute of Brock's bid to erase the all-time season stolen-base record.

Brock is closing in on a record that many of baseball's old guard said would remain out of reach for years.

The St. Louis Cardinal star has 86 steals, well ahead of Wills' record pace of 1962. He needs 19 steals in the remaining 37 games to crack the mark.

"I'm glad he's out of our hair," said Bench. The Reds and Cards do not meet again this regular season.

"I got him the last two times we played St. Louis," recalled Bench. "But all told, he's got more on me than I've got on him," said the strong-armed Oklahoman, considered by many as one of the best defensive catchers in history.

"He's a true artist in every sense of the word," said Bench. "He's not the fastest guy in baseball, yet he developed his thing and does the most with it."

"I don't see anything stopping Lou. He's proven he's durable. The guy is 35 years old. But I don't know what's going through his mind right now.

"There's a combination of things involved. First, the Cards are in a tough pennant race, so he has to be thinking team first. Second, he has to avoid any slump. He has to get on base to steal," said Bench.

"His strength? He's so daring. And he's got his timing down to a split-second. Any time he gets that pitcher to give him a step, he's gone. Sometimes it will be in a pitcher's high kick, or something in the delivery," added Bench

CHAFFEE — James A. "Buck" Foeste is a man who has served Chaffee gallantly since his day's as young naval seaman during World War II. Mr. Foeste is a man dedicated to the youth of Chaffee. He will be honored Saturday night.

We must backtrack to 1969 to fully realize the impact of this man on Chaffee's youth program. In 1969 Chaffee had seven little league baseball teams, but no Junior or Senior Babe Ruth league. None of the teams had a complete set of uniforms and a limited budget of $479.99. Mr. Foeste was appointed Boy's League Commissioner during this season. Two new teams were added in the 1970 season and every team had a matching set of uniforms. He also started a Pony league team this year.

The 1971 season was one which would hold great significance for Buck Foeste, because Chaffee's first sanctioned Jr. Babe Ruth league was formed. When this league was formed Mr. Foeste set two major goals for the league: (1) To win the Jr. Babe Ruth State Championship (2) To have at least one boy from Chaffee play major league baseball. One of these goals were reached in the 1974 season, the State Championship.

The first rewards of the organized baseball program came in the 1972 season when the Jr. Babe Ruth team became the Co- Champion of the State of Missouri. The operating budget that year had grown from $479.99 in 1969 to $2,618.55.

Late in 1972 Buck took on another responsibility, he was appointed to the Park Board and was immediately elected it's treasure. He accepted this responsibility and immediately brought the fiscal affairs of the board into perspective with his accounting and management procedures. What started out as a two night a week job as a little league manager had now mushroomed into an almost full time job as a public servant serving without pay.

In 1973 another baseball team was added, a Senior Babe Ruth team. In '73 the city's 35 year swimming pool succumbed to old age and Buck Foeste took over the job of renovating it and the pool remained open.

By 1973 the Chaffee baseball program had grown to points of being recognized as one of the best small town programs in the state. Inquiries from surrounding communities began to pour in seeking advice and Mr. Foeste gained a well deserved reputation as an organizer both in the field of baseball and youth recreation as a whole. Chaffee's total recreation program was second to none in the area. More than 30 teams and individual games were being provided for the youth of all ages at the city park. The total recreation program was serving between 200 and 300 youth daily at parks.

The summer of 1974 started like all others for Buck Foeste, but this was the year to win it all. He was appointed Eastern Zone Commissioner for Junior Babe Ruth in Missouri. He bid and received the 1974 Missouri Junior Babe Ruth State Tournament. The host team Chaffee walked away with the State Championship.

During the past five years, Buck Foeste has given of himself unselfishly to this community. He has seen hundreds of boys go through a baseball program second to none. He has served our youth in a way that we as parents could never repay, but the smile of a nine year who caught his first fly ball or a twelve year old who pitched a no- hitter is the reward that Buck Foeste seeks.

The success the Chaffee Boys have earned during the past few years cannot be measured by the trophies they have won, but by the dedication to good citizenship, through the spirit of competition. At the finals of the Babe Ruth Regional Tournament in Ottawa, Kansas, they unanimously chose Chaffee to receive the sportsmanship award. Buck Foeste with tears in his eyes, looked up and said, "Boys, thats what it's all about."

Buck Foeste has made many days ones to remember for our children and now its our time to make August 24, 1974 a day he will remember for the rest of his life.

Teen Challenge rally set Sunday

A Teen Challenge rally at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Miner Baptist Church, located at intersection of Highway 62 and Route H, will feature the Rev. Philip Breithaupt and The New Creations from Mid- America Teen Challenge Training Center at Cape Girardeau.

The New Creations, the official choir at the center, will share in music and testimony how they have found mental and physical cure from drug addiction through Christ, according to the Rev. Grady Etheridge, the Miner pastor.

The choir members are former law breakers, drug addicts, alcoholics and other delinquent youth. Their choir director, the Rev. Mr. Breithaupt, has served as tenor soloist with the Revivaltime choir on the ABC radio network and has recorded three albums.

As regional representative for the center, he has addressed civic clubs, high school assemblies, universities, student organizations and churches of many denominations in behalf of the Teen Challenge program.

Mid-America Teen Challenge Training Center is directed by the Rev. Herb Meppelink, the founder of Detroit Teen Challenge. It serves as the rehabilitation, training and re- entry program for Teen Challenge induction centers in Midwestern states.

The training center is located just west of the Mississippi River on a farm which provides a wholesome atmosphere where delinquent youth can seek a lasting solution to their problems.

Teen Challenge is a non-profit, religious- oriented organization founded by the Rev. David Wilkerson to help troubled youth through a moral and spiritual approach. The Rev. Mr. Wilkerson has authored 14 books and is considered a foremost authority on youth today. His first book, "The Cross and The Switchblade", tells the story of Teen Challenge. It is an eight- million copy best- seller that has been translated into 38 different languages and has been made into a feature- length movie starring Pat Boone.

Teen Challenge has over 60 induction centers in the United States and Puerto Rico and eight centers in eight foreign countries. The national average cure rate for hard core addicts who have graduated from the Teen Challenge program is 60.8 per cent.

The integrated, free, non-sectarian spiritual services and physical aid given by the Teen Challenge program is made possible by gifts from churches, foundations and interested individuals.

This week's Uniform INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
By Dr. William H. Taft

FOR AUGUST 25, 1974

Scripture: Colossians 3:12-4:1,5,6

PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS IN CHRIST

The Christian has an obligation to express Christ-like attitudes in all of his relationships in the church, the family, and the business world.

Today's lesson concerns a review of what it means to a Christian when he moves from his church environment on Sunday to his life outside. We must remind ourselves that if we confess Christ to be the center of our lives we must practice His teachings in all activities.

Many basic principles are reviewed today by Paul, who notes some of the distinctive Christian qualities of life, including compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, and patience.

There are other suggestions in this letter that no doubt will upset some of today's news makers.

"Wives, be subject to your husbands, as is fitting in the Lord," Paul wrote, adding, "Husbands, love your wives, and do not be harsh with them."

These ideas have been heard in other books including Ephesians, Peter, and Titus. At that time the male domination theory was not challenged. Today, this concept is being reviewed with many legal changes underway.

Paul did not see the wife as being an inferior person, not as being a slave to her husband. Under the traditions of the day, the man headed the family. He was not expected to be a tyrant if he professed Christianity.

The feminist movement would have been out of place in Paul's day. However, today's women leaders could take some comfort in the thought that the husband's commands to his wife should be considerate and loving.

Christianity is a religious concept that holds to basic views as presented by such writers as Paul, yet, it can adjust to changing conditions.

For example, Paul reminded the children to obey their parents in everything "for this pleases the Lord." Yet Paul warned the fathers about the dangers of provoking their children into becoming too discouraged.

One must be on guard in reading these commands. Paul certainly did not approve of any husband or father who would issue any order contrary to God's teachings.

A child should not be expected to follow any parent's command that is immoral. The same would be true with a husband-wife relationship.

Another problem is this lesson relates to the practice of slavery. Paul did not rule out slavery. Rather, he advised the slaves to obey their masters too. And the masters were directed to be just and fair with the slaves.

One wonders why Paul didn't advocate the end to slavery. Ralph Waldo Emerson had a more modern answer when he wrote, "If you put chains around the neck of a slave, the other end fastens itself around your own."

To Paul all persons were equal in the eyes of God, whether they were slaves or masters. All possessed full human dignity; all were worthwhile to God.

This Scripture suggests that we all need to examine and correct our existing attitudes and relationships with others. We should note that love and understanding will improve all such contacts.

Paul could visualize an eventual world peace if Christ-like relations started with such husband-wife, parent-children, and master-slaves contacts.

When these persons learn to live together and to treat each other as human beings, then such actions would spread around the world. Peace would follow.

Unjust treatment, however, continues to exist in this world. Some husbands still view their wives as chattel. Some parents still over-direct their children's activities. And some employers still treat their employees as slaves.

A Christian must be more than a Sunday worshiper. He must speak and act as Paul has advised in this letter. He must demonstrate his beliefs in action.

Group to sing in 3 churches

The Gospel Tones of North Little Rock, Ark., will sing in three area churches next weekend, beginning with a 7 p.m. performance on Aug. 31 in Bement Baptist Church on Route CC near Bertrand. Two appearances on Sept. 1 will be in the 11 a.m. service at the Sikeston Freewill Baptist Church, which meets at Sikeston Activity Center, and a 2 p.m. program at the Bell City United Methodist Church. The group organized about two and a half years ago and has sung for benefit programs, revival services, concerts and special singing events, as well as appearing regularly on television and recording albums.

Ledbetter ordained by Blodgett church

BLODGETT — A council composed of ministers and deacons from churches in the Charleston Baptist Association convened Sunday at First Baptist Church to ordain Alfred B. Ledbetter, the church's new pastor, to the gospel ministry.

The Rev. Alonzo R. Dale, pastor of the Oran First Baptist Church, was elected as moderator of the council, and the Rev. Tom Geer, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church in Sikeston, was named clerk.

The candidate was presented to the council by chairman of deacons, R. P. Householder, and the Rev. Jack L. Bishop of Benton, superintendent of missions of the Charleston Baptist Association, led the interrogation. After the ordination prayer, a certificate of ordination was presented by Householder.

The Rev. B. G. Corn, a former superintendent of missions and now pastor of Greenwood Baptist Church, delivered the ordination sermon.

Rev. A. B. Ledbetter

The Rev. Mr. Ledbetter is retiring from a career of 23 years in the Army. He and his wife live at 1014 Davis Blvd. in Sikeston.

Religion makes news

NEW YORK (AP) — Hindsight puts events in clearer perspective and points up the really decisive occurrences, the news that shapes history. From that long-range view, some experts have found that the biggest stories often have been religious.

"It came as a great surprise," says Will H. Yolen, chairman of the publishing committee of the Overseas Press Club. The club recently tapped the seasoned news judgment of members in compiling a list of the greatest news happenings of all time.

Of 140 suggestions, he says at least a third of them fell in the religious category. The club's board, made up of veteran correspondents, whittled the list to 23 top events for a book to be called "Newsbreak."

Eight of those prime occurrences were of a religious nature, making the subject loom larger than any other over the long stretch of time in the making of really big news.

Those in the religious category are:

"The Creation," "The Tower of Babel," "Cain Kills Abel— Homicide I," "Moses and Law and Order," "Buddha—Asia's Light of the World," "Christ and the Resurrection," "The Popes" and "The Children's Crusade" to the Holy Land in the Middle Ages.

The other biggest newsmakers of history which are included, some of them also containing religious elements, are:

"The First Word," "The Invenion of the Wheel," "Discovery of the Circulation of Blood," "The Invention of Money," "Helen and the Fall of Troy" and "Genghis Khan and the Huns Turn Back."

Twenty writers, all veterans of overseas assignments for various major news organizations, are producing the volume.

THE BIBLE

149. David Brings The Ark Home

After David and his forces had overwhelmed the Philistines in the valley of Rephaim, they set out to bring the Ark of the Covenant into the city of David. They placed the ark upon a new cart, driven by Abinadab's sons, Uzzah and Ahio. However, as the cart neared Nachon's threshing floor, the oxen shook the cart, and Uzzah touched the ark with his hand to steady it, and God smote him dead on that spot for his error.

David feared for the safety of the ark, so he carried it aside to the house of Obededom the Gittite, where it rested for three months. Then David and his forces went to move the ark into the city of David after sacrificing oxen and a fat lamb. Then they accompanied the progress of the ark with shouting, dancing, and the sounds of trumpets and other musical instruments.

"And they brought in the ark of the Lord, and set it in his place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had pitched for it: and David offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before the Lord. And...he blessed the people in the name of the Lord of hosts." (II Samuel 6:17-18)

Cape Jaycees to sponsor pageant

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Tri- County Junior Miss Pageant, sponsored by the Cape Girardeau Jaycees, Pageant is open to all Bollinger, Cape Girardeau and Scott county girls, aged 16 through 18, who are high school seniors and will be held at 7 p.m. Oct. 12 in the Holiday Inn.

Three local winners will be selected, one each from Bollinger, Cape and Scott counties.

More than $700,000 in college scholarships and other awards is being offered to local, state and national winners this year. A total of $55,000 in scholarships, topped by a $10,000 prize to the 1975 America's Junior Miss, will be awarded at the national pageant in Mobile. Ala.

Local prizes include a scholarship to Southeast Missouri State University or a college of the contestant's choice.

"Mental alertness, scholarship and personality are among the prime requisites," he said. "For example, in the 1974 America's Junior Miss Pageant at Mobile last May, all 50 of the girls taking part had a B average or better in their school studies.

Scholastic ability, good health, enthusiasm and warm, wholesome personality, along with a record of interest in school and civic affairs were among the major factors in the success of the 1974 America's Junior Miss winner, Karen Morris of Wyoming."

Bucek said judging in the local pageant will be based, as it is in state and the national events, on the following standards:

Scholastic achievement (15 per cent) — Based on a careful review of high school transcripts of grades and college board examinations by qualified educators.

Mental alertness and judges conference (35 per cent) — Based on an interview of each contestant by the judges. Here the judges look for a sense of values, clarity of expression, knowledge and perception, personal appearance and ability in human relations.

Poise and appearance (15 per cent) — This is based on the appearance of the contestant in evening gown. Poise, grace, grooming, good taste, carriage and posture are considered.

Youth fitness (15 per cent) — Based on coordination, appearance, correct posture, carriage and grace in sportswear.

Creative and performing arts (20 per cent) — Based on a three- minute talent presentation by each contestant with consideration to originality, technical ability, appropriateness of selection and costume, performance and presentation.

First orientation will be held Sept. 11 at 7 p.m. at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. Parents should accompany the girls. Each contestant should bring a photograph suitable for printing in the newspaper. If a photograph is not available, there will be a photographer taking pictures that evening.

Anyone interested in more information or an application may write to Junior Miss Pageant, P. O. Box 4, Cape Girardeau, Mo. 63701.

Cape gets new chief of police

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Henry H. Gerecke, U.S. Army Provost Marshal at Ft. Sam Houston in Texas, has been named new police chief of Cape Girardeau.

Gerecke, who assumes the post Jan. 1, replaces Irvin Beard, 68, who has held the post for 10 years.

Gerecke has been with the military police since 1944.

Dexter firemen ward off birds

DEXTER — Dexter firemen twice this week have warded off the threatening arrival of thousands of potentially dangerous starlings in an area just north of Highway 114 on Truitt Street. And they report intentions to continue efforts in that direction until the threat is gone.

Everyone who lived in Dexter in the winter of 1964 will no doubt recall the invasion of millions of small feathered friends who turned into threatening disease- laden nuisances when they settled in an area southwest of town.

Starlings, numbering high in the millions drew national attention to this community as carriers of histoplasmosis. Officials found it necessary to vaccinate school children and residents were cautioned to signs of the serious illness the birds carried.

Several attempts were made to drive out the diseased birds, and finally, after six long nights of endless efforts, the Dexter fire department succeeded in ridding the city's southwest side of the pests.

Firemen kept a vigil at the site, constantly sounding the shrill alarm and fire whistles in attempts to frighten the birds away and after almost a solid week, they at last departed.

The Dexter fire department, following a mayoral request Monday night, arrived at the intersection of Truitt and Walnut streets with their alarms shrieking and colored lights flashing through the trees as thousands of starlings sprung from the overhead branches. Two trucks Monday night spent over an hour ridding the area of the feathered nuisances. Three more trucks arrived in the same vicinity Tuesday night but few birds were found.

Assistant Fire Chief Larry Hall explained that the city had reports of the threatening birds and that necessary precautions were being taken to halt the start of another "invasion" before the situation got out of hand. And, the department's efforts seem to have worked.

The starlings may just settle in another part of town, Hall explained, but so far no reports of the birds concentrating on any other area has been sighted.

So, for the time being anyway, the creatures pose no immediate problem for this area.

Prairie man bound over for burglary, stealing

CHARLESTON — Preliminary hearings Thursday before Magistrate T. J. Brown Jr. resulted in two men being bound over to Circuit Court on felony charges.

Larry Dale Houston of East Prairie was bound over on a charge of burglary and stealing in connection with the break-in at a house owned by Choate Farms in the Dorena Community on July 21. Four guns, a stereo combination, microwave oven and saddle were taken from the home occupied by Hoyte Choate.

Testifying during the preliminary were Hoyt Choate, Deputy Sheriffs Jack Ivie and Norris Grissom, August Nilges of Jefferson City, Rueben Bennett of rural East Prairie, Larry Houston and his father, Barney Houston of East Prairie.

According to Choate, he discovered the break-in and theft about 11 p.m. July 21. He said he found a billfold, later identified as belonging to Larry Houston, in the kitchen area of the home. He then called Rueben Bennett, who lived nearby, and Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie.

The microwave oven, taken in the break-in, was entered in evidence. Other items recovered included the saddle and one speaker from the stereo unit.

August Niles, latent print examiner for the highway patrol, testified he made comparison tests on fingerprints and palm prints sent to the lab by the sheriff's department. According to Nilges, a right thumb print and two right palm prints, taken from the oven, matched those of Larry Houston.

Larry and Barney Houstor were called as defense witnesses. According to their testimony, they had been painting the Choate house for about four days prior to the break-in and on several occasions had entered the house to wash paint brushes, get drinks of water and use the bathroom.

Larry Houston said he had moved the oven a number of times from the kitchen counter to a table so that water and paint would not splash on it while he was washing brushes. Barney Houston said he did not see his son move the oven but on occasion he himself had put a rag over it so that it would not be splattered.

Houston, who is free on $2,500 bond, will appear in Circuit Court Sept. 10.

Jim Andrews Jr. of Charleston was bound over on a felonious assault charge stemming from the June 26 stabbing of Tim Whitney Jr., also of Charleston. Andrews remains free on $1,500 bond and will appear Sept. 10 in Circuit Court.

Witnesses in the preliminary included Tim Whitney Jr., Julius Owens and Bobby Whitney of Charleston.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Sept. 12 for Raymond Hamilton of Anniston, charged with forcibly breaking, entering with felonious and burglarious intent to steel. Hamilton, who remains in custody in lieu of $2,500 bond, is accused of entering the home of Julius Kent of Charleston Route One on Aug. 9 and stealing a shotgun, two men's shirts, a flashlight and commodities.

Trial for Oliver Williams was taken off Thursday docket and reset for Sept. 5. Williams, charged with disturbing the peace, remains free on $500 bond.

An attorney was appointed to represent William Franklin Sloan of Wilson City on a charge of burglary, involving breaking and entering, and stealing. Bond was set at $2,500 for Sloan, who is accused of breaking into the J. L. Groves Liquor Store in Wyatt on Aug. 18 and stealing 14 cases and one six pack of beer.

A preliminary for Odell 'Tadpole'' Johnson of Charleston, charged with a felony of molesting a minor with immoral intent, was set for Sept. 19. Johnson is free on $2,500 bond.

Edward J. Moss of Lebanon, Tenn. was fined a total of $175, plus court costs on charges of driving while intoxicated and having no operator's license. If Moss fails to pay the fines he must serve 30 days in the county jail.

Jack Achter of East Prairie received a 30- day suspended jail sentence on a disturbing the peace charge and was placed on one year probation. Conditions of his probation include obeying the law and paying court costs of $26.

Other misdemeanor charges and fines included: Mary Ann Morgan of East Prairie, speeding, $29; Judith Ann Norman Barksdale of Sikeston, speeding, $37; Austin Moore, violation of the wildlife code, $26; Willa Fay Taylor of East Prairie, speeding, $31; Ron Holder, common assault, $73.50; Charleston Winston Chambers of Anniston, wrong side of road and no operator's license, $56; Donald Lee Hubbard of East Prairie, speeding, $35;

Phillip Carlyle of East Prairie, no motorcycle license, no inspection, no endorsement on driver's license and driving without head lamps, $41.50; Austin Moore and James Moore, trespassing, $24.25 each; Stephen Russell Lloyd of East Prairie, underage possession of five per cent beer, $66 and speeding, $41; Kenneth Davis Garrett of East Prairie, speeding, $26; and Johnny Hunt of East Prairie, common assault, $46.50.

Default judgment of $181.70 was awarded First Bank of East Prairie in a note suit brought against David Griffs.

Cases continued to Aug. 29 were: Ronald E. Williams, taking fish by seine and taking fish by commercial fishing equipment without proper permit; Cecil Lee Williams, violation of the wildlife code; and C. W. Mixon of Wyatt, driving without an operator's license.

A Novel Conspiracy

Nick Thirkield, half-brother of assassinated President Timothy Kegan, learns from the deathbed confession of an employe that his brother was not killed by one psychopath. There was a second gun, a conspiracy.

Father of the hero and the dead president, Thomas Kegan is a super-rich oil and industrial tycoon who enlists the power of his business empire to help Nick's investigation along. Assorted scientists, policemen, labor leaders, film stars and journalists pop in and out of the fast-paced story. Illusion and truth are mingled and oilman-turned-detective Nick has problems untangling the thread of truth he seeks.

Condon uses dates as chapter headings, easing the transition to flashbacks of previous events. It isn't so difficult to figure out who is behind the assassination conspiracy — it's the WHY of it that is elusive.

What's the law?

The case of the thirsty beer drinker

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Barney was stopped by a police car while driving a truck into a "dry" state. It contained 450 cases beer and it seemed that his cargo had been showing. The result? His brew was confiscated and Barney was livid.

"You can't do that," he protested to the police officers. "I know the law. Bringing beer into this state for a person's own use is perfectly legal. And all that beer's for me. I get awfully thirsty. Consequently, I want my beer back."

"You may be a great beer drinker," responded the officers, "But, doing a little quick arithmatic, 450 cases of beer is equal to 10,800 cans. And you couldn't guzzle down that amount of suds if your life depended upon it. Therefore, the obvious conclusion is that you intended to sell it and that makes the confiscation absolutely legal."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give thirsty Barney back his beer?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that even at four or five cans a day, it would have taken Barney six years to consume all the beer he had been caught hawling. Unless he was a tremendously provident person who was ainticipating a dire drought in the beer market and was protecting his inordinate thirst for the invigorating beverage for six years to come, concluded the judge, his story that he had bought the beer for his own consumption was highly improbable and not worthy of belief.

On this date:

In 1500, Christopher Columbus was accused of mistreating natives in Haiti. He was arrested and ordered sent back to Spain in chains.

In 1869, followers of Mary Baker Eddy obtained a charter to organize the Church of Christ Scientist.

Ten years ago, a footbridge collapsed over a river gorge in Venezuela and 29 persons plunged to their deaths in the rapids below.

Five years ago, Gen. Tran Thiem Khiem was appointed South Vietnam's premier by his old friend, President Thieu.

One year ago, former FBI officials confirmed that for more than 15 years the bureau engaged in limited burglaries to gain foreign intelligence. But they denied President Nixon's contention that the burglaries were comparable to the Ellsberg break-in.

Today's birthdays: Dancer Gene Kelly is 62. Singer Tex Williams is 57.

Thought for today: Idealism is the noble toga that political gentlemen drape over their will to power—Novelist Aldous Huxley, 1894-1963.

FFA students win prizes

CHARLESTON — Charleston High School Future Farmers of America members won several prizes Saturday at the Missouri State Fair in Sedalia, according to Ed Robertson, vocational agriculture teacher at CHS.

The boys were entered in the FFA farm mechanics exhibition category, and while the prize money has not yet been computed by fair authorities, the local entrants will probably win "about $200, according to Robertson.

The teacher said last year was the first time he had "been brave enough to enter anything in state competition" but the boys won $200, so he figured it was a good bet to try again.

Prizes on large exhibits are purple, gold, silver and bronze ribbons. On smaller items, the prizes are gold, silver and bronze ribbons, Robertson said.

Chronister, executive director of the authority, explained to new councilmen and other interested councilmen the city's comprehensive plan and the workable report which must be filed with the U. S. government every two years.

All councilmen had been invited to the meeting, at which no voting took place, only an explanation of the plan and report.

Overpass now open

CHARLESTON — The Interstate 57 overpass on Highway 62 east of Charleston was officially opened to traffic about 2 p.m. Tuesday, according to Charles Castleberry, maintenance area supervisor for the State Highway Department in Mississippi County.

Castleberry cautioned motorists to observe the traffic signal, which is now in operation for Highway 62 traffic.

The signal is traffic-actuated by the eastbound traffic coming out of Charleston. Castleberry said motorists should pull all the way up to the stop line on the highway in order to activate the light. The green light goes on about 30 seconds after the switch is activated, he said.

Charleston bands to meet Tuesday

CHARLESTON — All members of the Charleston High school band and freshman band are to report to the high school band room Tuesday morning at 9:30. Uniforms will be issued to members of the senior high band.

All band members are expected to be there, according to band director John Schofield.

Bill giving stronger pension protection sent to President

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill giving much stronger protection to members of private pension plans has been sent to President Ford, climaxing years of work by Congress.

The Senate on Thursday passed the compromise version 85-0. The House had cleared it on Tuesday 407-2.

Ford has indicated he will sign the bill when a ceremony can be arranged for the congressional sponsors to attend.

The bill seeks to guarantee that 35 million to 40 million persons covered by the plans get the retirement benefits they had expected.

Congressional studies showed most plans worked satisfactorily but that thousands of persons never received promised benefits.

The measure also provides new tax incentives to self-employed persons to improve their own pension programs and for employes to set up individual programs when their companies do not have a plan.

Sponsors said it was a major step in improving the pension system but conceded they would like to see further progress.

Some critics have said the measure is inadequate because it would not require firms to set up pension plans or raise present payments.

About half the U.S. work force now is covered by plans. The average payment is approximately $141 a month.

Major provisions of the bill:

Eligibility—All employes would have to be admitted to a pension plan, if the company has one, at age 25 and after one year of service.

Vesting (an employe's guaranteed right to a pension after a specified period of service)— The company would have to adopt one of three alternatives under which the employe would have 100 per cent vested rights after being on the payroll no longer than 15 years.

Funding—Employers would have to put sufficient amounts into pension funds in the future to meet pension liabilities incurred each year. To make up for any deficits for past service, employers would have to make annual payments so that full funding would be achieved in 30 years, or 40 years in a few cases.

Portability—A voluntary portability plan would be set up under which an employe changing jobs could have his vested credits transferred to his new employer. Alternatively, the credits could be transferred to a new government corporation which would establish separate accounts for individual workers.

Plan Termination Insurance—A new government corporation would be set up to pay benefits when a company went out of business and its pension fund lacked sufficient assets or when a fund in a going concern could not meet its obligations.

Payments would be limited to 100 per cent of the average monthly wage in a recipient's five highest-paid years or $750 a month, whichever is lower.

Self-employed Persons—Doctors, lawyers and other self-employed persons would be allowed to put up to 15 per cent of income, up to a maximum of $7,500 a year, in tax-exempt funds into their own pension plans. Presently, they are limited to 10 per cent or $2,500.

Tax incentives for individual employes not in private pension plans would permit the employes to put up to $1,500 a year in tax-exempt funds into their own plans.

Battery stolen

A 12- volt battery was taken from a car belonging to John Inman, 305 Moore Ave., between 3 p.m. Wednesday and 10:25 a.m. Thursday.

Inman told police the battery was taken from his car while it was parked on the southwest side of the house.

The battery was a year old and valued at $15.

Car stolen here

A 1969 Oldsmobile station wagon was stolen between 5 and 10 p.m. Thursday from the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. parking lot on Center Street.

Police said the car belonged to Paul C. Meyer, 815 N. Kingshighway.

World news in brief

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS correspondent Dan Rather is being reassigned to other duties after covering the White House for nearly eight years.

The network said on Thursday that Rather will be replaced by Bob Schieffer, CBS's Pentagon reporter. Phil Jones, who covered President Ford when he was vice president, also will join the network's White House staff.

Rather, 42, will continue to anchor CBS's Saturday night news programs and will start anchoring the Sunday ones, the network said. Senior vice president William Small called Rather's new assignment "a promotion to a better job."

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Erskine Caldwell, author of "Tobacco Road" and "God's Little Acre," is reported in satisfactory condition after undergoing surgery to remove a growth on a lung.

The 70-year-old novelist was operated on on Tuesday at Methodist Hospital. His wife, Virginia, said Thursday that her husband was "coming along fine." Caldwell came here for a checkup at the Mayo Clinic.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman has given a court-ordered deposition in connection with a $840,000 damage suit filed by 14 young people.

The plaintiffs claim they were prevented from attending a speech by former President Richard M. Nixon at a 1971 rally. Defendants in the suit are Haldeman; two former White House advance men; the Charlotte police department; the Secret Service; and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Haldeman, also a defendant in the upcoming Watergate cover-up trial, declined to comment publicly on the suit. He was met at the airport on Thursday by five hecklers but ignored them.

"Doctors and lawyers are not about to disclose the names and addresses of patients and clients who are paying them more than $500 a year just so they can qualify to serve on school boards and city councils. It would also apply if their wives were to become candidates.

The campaign reform issue has been endorsed by all other elected officials in the state and many legislators. Kirkpatrick, while finding fault with it, says he endorses the general concept.

"Every four years, some 45,000 Missourians seek public office, supported by as many as 135,000 committees," Kirkpatrick said.

"I hope voters consider how this proposal will affect the candidates running at the level closest to the people as well as increase the cost of government. In the secretary of state's office alone, operations cost would be an additional $300,000."

He said the proposal also failed to provide sufficient time for implementation, necessary funding, a centralized location for reports filed by local candidates, and a notification procedure to provide the secretary of state with the names and addresses of candidates and committees to whom he must supply record manuals and report forms.

"The problem with an initiative proposal is the people must either take it or leave it," Kirkpatrick said.

"I believe the general assembly will move slowly in altering any proposal enacted by a direct vote of the people. This means we could be burdened with an unworkable system."

Mills tries to spread some cheer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, is trying to spread some cheer along a gloomy Wall Street with a reminder that tax revision may be on the way.

After the stock market closed Thursday at its lowest since July 14 1970, Mills' office released a statement that noted the sagging market.

It said the tax revision bill to "be given final consideration by the committee beginning Sept. 11 will include a number of provisions in the area of capital gains and losses, which should be of material benefits to taxpayers and investors across the nation."

Among these provisions will be a reduction in the capital gains tax for assets held more than five years so that no more than 30 per cent of the gain on the sale of the assets would be subject to tax.

The bill also would give all homeowners the relief now afforded to taxpayers over 65 on the sale of a personal residence. If enacted, the amendment would allow any gain on the sales price of a residence up to $35,000 to escape taxation. On amounts above that, a pro rata reduction would be provided.

JEANNIE

In Color, Saturdays, 8:00-8:26 A.M. CDT. Season Premiere: September 7, 1974

Starting its second season on the CBS Television Network on Saturday, September 7, 1974, JEANNIE is now one of the most highly rated of all animated adventure series on television.

Based on the original live-action series, "I Dream of Jeannie," JEANNIE's star is a teenager endowed with a fabulous magical power. This power, activated by a twitch of her pony tail, also has a way of going awry. JEANNIE's master is Cory, the most popular boy in the class, and although she means well, JEANNIE's good intentions for Cory have a remarkable way of making his life hilariously complicated.

JEANNIE is aided in her schemes by Babu, her 350-pound brother who is an apprentice genie. Babu's source of magic is the phrase "yapple- dapple." But, often, Babu can't quite get the words out in the proper order. Instead, he tries "dapple- yapple," "apple bapple" and so on, which only frustrates the matter even further. Naturally, only a very select few know that Jeannie and Babu are genies - a secret that leads to loads of fun for just about everybody but poor Cory.

JEANNIE

In Color, Saturdays, 8:00-8:26 A.M. CDT. Season Premiere: September 7, 1974

Starting its second season on the CBS Television Network on Saturday, September 7, 1974, JEANNIE is now one of the most highly rated of all animated adventure series on television.

Based on the original live-action series, "I Dream of Jeannie," JEANNIE's star is a teenager endowed with a fabulous magical power. This power, activated by a twitch of her pony tail, also has a way of going awry. JEANNIE's master is Cory, the most popular boy in the class, and although she means well, JEANNIE's good intentions for Cory have a remarkable way of making his life hilariously complicated.

JEANNIE is aided in her schemes by Babu, her 350-pound brother who is an apprentice genie. Babu's source of magic is the phrase "yapple- dapple." But, often, Babu can't quite get the words out in the proper order. Instead, he tries "dapple- yapple," "apple bapple" and so on, which only frustrates the matter even further. Naturally, only a very select few know that Jeannie and Babu are genies - a secret that leads to loads of fun for just about everybody but poor Cory.

'BELL SYSTEM FAMILY THEATRE' WILL PRESENT SERIES OF SPECIALS ON MONTHLY BASIS ON NBC TELEVISION NETWORK IN '74 -75 SEASON

The award- winning "Bell System Family Theatre" will begin its fifth consecutive season on the NBC Television Network in September. Seven major specials will be presented during the 1974-75 season, including musical variety shows and dramas drawn from contemporary and classic literature.

All "Bell System Family Theatre" productions are under the full sponsorship of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company (through N. W. Ayer & Son Inc.).

The specials are to be presented on a monthly basis and will feature a roster of popular performances, including Richard Chamberlain, Bing Crosby, Peggy Fleming, James Earl Jones, James Mason, Sarah Miles, David Niven and Michael York.

The curtain goes up Thursday, Sept. 5 (7-8 p.m. CDT), as "Peggy Fleming Visits the Soviet Union" is colorcast for a second time. The critically acclaimed special, filmed entirely on location in the U.S.S.R., focuses on the internationally famous skating star as she shares the spotlight with popular Russian performers.

"The Cay," a drama starring James Earl Jones, will be presented Monday, Oct. 21 (7-8 p.m. CDT). The play, adapted from the acclaimed novella of the same title by Theodore Taylor, tells of an aging West Indian seaman (Jones) who rescues and cares for an American boy when their ship is torpedoed by a Nazi submarine during World War II. Alfred Lutter III, 12, plays the boy.

A new, two- hour version of the Charles Dickens classic, "Great Expectations," will feature leading British performers Friday, Nov. 22 (7-9 p.m. CDT). Michael York, as Pip, Sarah Miles, as Estella, and James Mason, as the convict, Magwitch, are the stars. Margaret Leighton, Robert Morley, Anthony Quayle and Andrew Ray have key roles in the drama, which is being filmed in England.

Bing Crosby continues a "Bell System Family Theatre" tradition when he stars in a yule special tentatively titled "The Bing Crosby Christmas Show" Sunday, Dec. 15 (7-8 p.m. CDT). Members of his family and guest stars will join Bing for the festivities.

Richard Chamberlain is the star of the new, two- hour production of the Alexandre Duman story of adventure and intrigue, "The County of Monte Cristo," to be presented Friday, Jan. 10 (7-9 p.m. CDT). The special will be filmed in Europe, at locales including the Chateau d'If off the coast of Marseilles, France, which figures prominently in the tale.

"Highlights of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus," bringing to viewers the excitement and fun of the Big Top, will be colorcast Sunday, Feb. 16 (6:30 -7:30 p.m. CDT). Featured will be new acts from the 105th edition of The Greatest Show on Earth.

David Niven stars as "The Canterville Ghost" in a new adaptation of Oscar Wilde's humorous yet poignant story, to be colorcast Monday, March 10 (7-8 p.m. CDT). The cast includes James Whitmore and his wife, Audra Lindley, as the American couple who bring their family to a haunted English manor -- much to the displeasure of the resident ghost.

'HIGH ROLLERS'

Monday- Fridays, NBC Television Network. (In Color, 10-10:30 a.m. CDT)

"High Rollers," hosted by Alex Trebek, is a new TV version of the game of dice, in which contestants roll for cash and prizes, and try to win a chance to roll for the numbers on the Big Board. Winning the grand prize means $10,000 and a new car.

The object of the game is to eliminate all the numbers – one through nine – on the merchandise board by using any combination of numbers that equal the roll of the dice. The contestant wins prizes by making matches of merchandise revealed by the eliminated numbers. The winner of two out of three games is then given a chance to roll against the large numbers for the car and $10,000.

To start the game, two contestants are given a toss-up question. The first to answer correctly gains control of the dice. Should that person roll a seven, for example, he may eliminate any combination of numbers that add up to seven -- five and two, three and four, six and one -- or the number seven itself. The player in control of the dice has the option to roll or pass them to his opponent. If there are no longer any numbers left on the board that will equal the roll of the dice, the contestant in control of the dice loses.

PEPPARD, 'BANACEK' STAR, IS FORMER COLLEGE ATHLETE

George Peppard, who stars as Thomas Banacek in 'Banacek', the Tuesday Mystery Movie on NBC, originally planned to become a civil engineer. That was his major at Purdue University before he became sidetracked by the theater.

It was while he was at Purdue that he began performing at the Purdue Playshop and later transferred to Carnegie Institute of Technology and was graduated with a fine arts degree.

At Carnegie Tech, Peppard also worked part-time as a disc jockey and station engineer for a radio station, taught fencing, appeared in Shakespearean productions and Greek drama and played in two productions at the Pittsburgh Playhouse.

He entered the Actors Studio and the Lee Strasberg acting laboratory but paying jobs were nonexistent.

After a long and hungry period in New York, Peppard landed his first role in the film "The Strange One." This work lasted three months and, having broken the ice, he began to get better and better roles on television in New York.

Peppard turned to motion pictures again for "Pork Chop Hill". His performance in the latter brought acclaim -- and new movie assignments.

He went on to starring roles in "Breakfast at Tiffany's", "How The West Was Won," "The Victors" opposite Melina Mercouri, "Operation Crossbow" with Sophia Loren and "The Carpetbaggers," a box office hit.

Peppard was born in Detroit, Mich. His father was a building contractor. His mother, who headed the voice department at the Detroit Conservatory of Music, was a protege of the late Ernestine Schumann - Heink and sang as a contralto star in light opera companies under her professiona name, Vernelle Rohrer. At the time of her death, in 1964, she was a member of the music faculty of UCLA.

Peppard competed on the football and track teams at Dearborn High School (Mich.) and spent 18 months in the Marine Corps before enrolling at Purdue.
